

Unfounded threat at Astoria High School

The Daily Astorian

Police responded to a potential threat at Astoria High School Friday by students who came to school dressed in trench coats. The threat was determined to be unfounded, and the students had no weapons.

Around 11:20 a.m., the Astoria Police Department was contacted by the high school's administration that students had warned them of three individuals dressed in trench coats and possibly planning a school shooting.

Officers from the Astoria Police and the Clatsop County Sheriff's Office responded to the high school, which was checked and found to be safe. Two students were detained by administrators, and a third was determined to not be involved in the incident.

"Astoria Police Department is continuing to work with the Astoria School District to investigate exactly what statements had been made leading to the notification of school officials and law enforcement," a release from Astoria Deputy Police Chief Eric Halverson said. "The involved students were not in possession of any weapons, and preliminary information indicates that the subjects dressed in this manner to scare people."

The Clatsop County District Attorney's Office is currently reviewing the incident. No charges have been filed in the case.

Astoria seeks feedback on McClure, Shively parks

By KATIE FRANKOWICZ
The Daily Astorian

The Astoria Parks and Recreation Department wants to hear from residents about plans for two city parks.

The department has announced it is conducting an online survey to gauge people's opinions about plans for

McClure Park, located off Eighth Street between Franklin and Grand avenues, and Shively Park, tucked away over the hill near the Astoria Middle School. Both parks are considered to be in poor condition and are a priority, according to the department's comprehensive master plan finalized last year. But while McClure is believed to have very low use by the community, Shively remains a popular park.

The parks department plans to present a final draft of site master plans for these parks to the Astoria City Council in June.

Warrenton woman dies in accident near Gearhart

The Daily Astorian

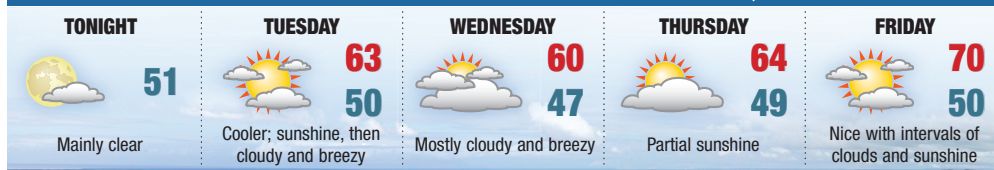

GEARHART — A Warrenton woman died Friday night in a single-vehicle accident on U.S. Highway 101 just north of Gearhart. Shortly after 11 p.m.,

Wendi Robinson, 42, allegedly was driving at high speeds when she lost control of her 2016 Toyota Corolla, according to a press release from the Oregon State Police. The car lost traction, drove off the southbound edge of the road, overturned and came to rest partially submerged in 3 feet of water, according to state police.

Emergency personnel removed Robinson from the vehicle but were unable to resuscitate her with CPR.

Fort George co-owner to address college graduates

The Daily Astorian

Chris Nemlowill, co-owner of Fort George Brewery, will be the keynote speaker at Clatsop Community College's graduation.

Nemlowill completed an associate transfer degree at the college in 2001, then transferred to Southern Oregon University, where he graduated with a bachelor's degree in marketing in 2003. He co-owns Fort George with Jack Harris.

"I felt prepared to go to SOU and be successful," he said in a release about his time at the college. "I learned how to study and was on the dean's list and was fired up about my future. CCC has really good programs that helped prepare me for this ... to run a business."
