Visit the west's 'Ellis Island' for Historic Preservation Month

KNAPPTON COVE — In honor of Historic Preservation Month, the Knappton Cove Heritage Center — which runs the U.S. Columbia River Quarantine museum — will have a special exhibit during the site's annual open house 1 to 4 p.m. Saturday, May 27. The event will include light refreshments.

Organizers will recognize the students and instructors from the Clatsop Community College Historic Preservation & Restoration program that have improved the site.

At 2 p.m., there will be a short program about the impact to the U.S. Public Health Service when 500,000 men were conscripted in April 1917 as the country entered World War I.

The exhibit includes a vintage military field desk (dated 1909), a 1914 Public Health Service replica uniform, a World War I duffel bag, vintage photos of the war's soldiers and photos of Public Health Service posters with health warnings for soldiers.

Visitors are invited to stroll the grounds, which includes a healing garden and "artifact alley."

The heritage center (521 Washington State Route 401 in Naselle), a nonprofit organization devoted to the preservation and interpretation of the National Historic Site, is located three miles upriver from the Washington side of the Astoria Bridge.
