

Volunteers needed at Kilchis Estuary Preserve

TILLAMOOK — The Nature Conservancy is holding a volunteer work party at the Kilchis River on Saturday, June 17, to remove barbed wire fence, the organization announced.

The event is part of a larger effort to “improve habitat for Chinook, chum and coho salmon,” the conservancy said in a release.

Participants will be expected to hike up to two miles over the course of the day over the Kilchis Estuary Preserve’s flat terrain.

They should bring: rubber boots or hiking shoes, a day-pack, lunch and snacks, a full water bottle, layers of clothing to be prepared for any weather (including raingear, and a hat and sunscreen). In addition, they should bring leather gloves and eye protection (sunglasses or safety glasses) if they have them; if they do not, organizers will provide gloves and safety glasses to borrow.

Registration is required: nature.org/oregonworkparties. For more information, call 503-802-8100 or visit orvolunteers@tnc.org.

Register early for Jason M. Goodding Memorial Cornhole Tournament

SEASIDE — The second annual Jason Goodding Memorial Cornhole Tournament, an all-ages fundraiser, will be held noon Saturday, June 17, at the Seaside Elks Lodge (324 Ave. A).

Registration begins at 11:30 a.m., but early online registration is also encouraged.

The cost is $100 for a two-person team, but participation in the tournament is not mandatory. All-day admission is $5. Anyone unable to register on the Facebook page can do so at the event.

Goodding, a Seaside police sergeant, was shot and killed in the line of duty Feb. 5, 2016. The tournament honors Goodding and his legacy of community service. Proceeds from the tournament go toward the Jason Goodding scholarship that will go to a Seaside High School graduate pursuing a career in teaching or criminal justice.

SUBMITTED PHOTO

Sou'wester hosts sumi ink wash drawing workshop

SEAVIEW, WASH. — The Sou'wester Lodge (3728 J Place) is hosting a wash drawing workshop, “Drawing as Seeing and the Acceptance of Chaos: A Sumi Ink,” 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday, June 10.

Taught by Heather McLaughlin, the workshop is the first in the lodge’s 2017 Workshop Series with more than 18 artist-led classes on a variety of topics. The “Sumi Ink” workshop costs $40, plus a $10 material fee to be paid directly to the instructor.

The classes are open to the public, geared for adults, suited for all skill levels and support Sou'wester’s artist-in-residence program. A maximum of 10 students will be admitted. RSVP via souwesterfrontdesk@gmail.com or 360-642-2542.

During the workshop, “students will complete multiple small drawings using the Sou'wester grounds as their muse and model,” organizers said. “We will cover techniques for recording scale, light and shapes while practicing plenair (on-site) drawing skills and increase our understanding and mastery of the sumi ink medium.”

“Wash drawing” is a watercolor technique that involves applying layers of monochrome washes over each other. Participants are advised to wear comfortable clothes suited for outdoors that they don’t mind getting art materials on. In addition, they should bring a snack or sack lunch; hot tea and coffee will be provided.

McLaughlin is the printmaking studio manager and adjunct continuing education instructor at the Pacific Northwest College of Art.

Trail's End Art Association
presents
67th
JUDGED
ANNUAL SHOW
July 1-28, 2017

Best of Show 2016 Debbie Loyd

Submit Art: June 25-26 • Reception: July 1, 2-5pm • Awards: 3pm
Get Call For Art at our Center or www.trailsendart.org

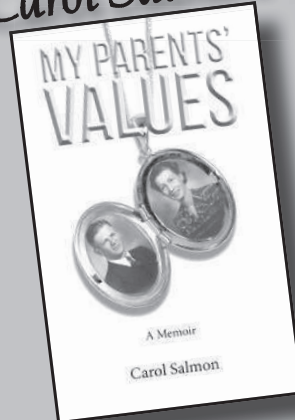

OPEN TO ALL ARTISTS ALL AGES!

We're located at
656 A St. in Gearhart
503-717-9458

Book Signing by Carol Salmon

Saturday
June 17th
Noon to 2^{pm}

Godfather's Books
1108 Commercial St.
Astoria

My Parents' Values

depicts the life of farmers in North Dakota in the early 1900s. This is great opportunity for questions and discussion about the life of settlers in the Midwest during this time.

Joining the team at

Rinehart Clinic

Stacey Agee
Adult Nurse Practitioner

Rinehart Clinic welcomes Stacey Agee, our new nurse practitioner serving patients 12 and over.

She has over 34 years' experience as a registered nurse and nurse practitioner specializing in internal medicine and women's health.

Stacey is new to the Rinehart Clinic, but she's been serving our coastal communities for many years!

RINEHART
Clinic & Pharmacy

230 Rowe Street
Wheeler, Oregon 97147
1-800-368-5182