Cannon Beach Arts Association presents 'Landscapes as Perception'

CANNON BEACH — Join the Cannon Beach Arts Association for an opening reception of "Landscapes as Perception," a show taking place 6 to 8 p.m. Saturday, June 17, at the Cannon Beach Gallery (1064 S. Hemlock St.).

The exhibit will explore landscapes from three artists — Sidonie Caron, Christopher Perry and J. Scott Wilson — that will be on display Wednesday, June 14, to Sunday, July 16.

Guests are encouraged to attend the artist talk 11 a.m. Sunday, June 18, at the gallery.

The exhibit features three distinct landscape styles and mediums interpreting the horizon, time and space in unique ways.

Caron has shown at the gallery before and works largely in oils. Her work hints at Fauvism, the association said in a release: "It captures the vibrant colors of the land and sea at dusk."

Perry works in oil and kiln glass, and is a new artist at the association. His abstract kiln-glass work "allows the audience to interpret the moment in time which the landscape is depicting," the association said.

Wilson, a local artist, owns Polaris Gallery in Manzanita. "Working in oil on canvas, his landscapes perfectly capture the height of the sky as the storms wait patiently to roll in," the association said.

The opening is family friendly. Complimentary refreshments will be served thanks to Cannon Beach Fresh Foods, the Wine Shack and Bald Eagle Coffee.

The show is sponsored by Claudia Toutain-Dorbec, local author of "A Season At Monet's Garden." (The author will also sign copies of her book during the association's book talk in July.)

Master Gardener workshop teaches permaculture

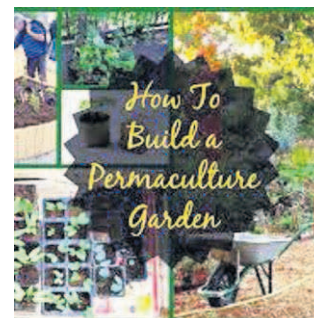

ILWACO, WASH. — Washington State University Master Gardeners of Pacific County will present a workshop, "Permaculture: Design for Sustainable Living," from 10 to 11:30 a.m. Saturday, June 17, at Columbia Pacific Heritage Museum (115 S.E. Lake St., Ilwaco).

"Permaculture is a system for sustainable living integrating plants, animals, buildings, people and communities," organizers said. "In other words, it merges the garden and home to create an overall lifestyle that has less impact on the environment."

Participants will explore the ethics and principles of permaculture design, see examples of its common features and leave with new ideas for sustainable gardening.

Have plant questions or problems? Ask a Master Gardener at their museum plant clinic 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. If possible, bring samples of the problem.

After the workshop, participants are invite to visit the Museum Discovery Garden. It has many plants native to the Pacific Northwest. The Discovery Garden is located behind the
