TOMORROW'S NATIONAL WEATHER

Fort George to expand seating

By EDWARD STRATTON
The Daily Astorian

Fort George Brewery is planning to climate control and double its outdoor seating.

In the fall, the brewery will start construction on a steel-and-glass enclosure around the patio in its courtyard, adding an equal-size patio on the second story with a sky bridge to the brewery's garden and parking area along Exchange Street.

Co-owner Jack Harris said the brewery, only able to use its outdoor seating about four months out of the year because of foul weather, has been thinking about the expansion for a few years. The brewery, which opened in 2006, has grown quickly, surpassing its 10-year growth plan in two years.

"We used to think we had too much space, but now we're counting every nook and cranny," Harris said.

He said construction will start in October, with a goal to finish by the popular Festival of Dark Arts stout beer festival in February.

Fort George Brewery will enclose its first-story patio, adding a second-story patio on top.

State trails advisory council to meet in Astoria

The Oregon Recreation Trails Advisory Council will meet July 21 at the Holiday Inn Express in Astoria.

Local trail advocates and land managers will present information about trail projects and initiatives in the area, and the council will take public comments.

The council will take comments on items such as the proposed 17-mile Crooked River Canyon Scenic Bikeway, which would start in Prineville and wind its way up the Crooked River to Prineville Reservoir.

The meeting will take place from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

People unable to attend can email comments to Alex Phillips, bikeways and waterways coordinator with the Oregon Parks and Recreation Department, at alex.phillips@oregon.gov
