

Pot shop: Other applications have been submitted in the past year

Cannon Beach's first marijuana dispensary Five Zero Trees is expected to open later this summer at 140 S. Hemlock St. Manufacturing and processing still are prohibited because the city has no industrial zoning.

person dressed in a pot leaf costume — we try to take a non-descript approach and be respectful to the community we're in.”

Van Dorne and his two business partners, Joel Jennings and Jason Cain, combined have about 30 years of experience working in the medical marijuana industry. While this store is primarily recreational, Van Dorne and Jennings got their start in the medical marijuana industry after being introduced by a mutual friend who was a medical marijuana patient.

“Cannabis is a substance that can transcend all genders, religion, lifestyle — it brings different values to different people,” he said. “If we can provide this experience in a safe mechanism, that’s fulfilling.”

Expanding cannabis

While Five Zero Trees will be the first to open its doors in town, other applications and casual inquiries have been submitted to the city in the past year, City Planner Mark Barnes said in June.

One application will be heard by the Design Review Board in August about plans to open a marijuana dispensary at 3115 S. Hemlock St.

The applicant and owner, Daryl Bell, attempted to open a retail marijuana shop in a condominium complex near Pier 39 in Astoria last year. The store did not open, however, after the Astoria City Council decided the Planning Commission did not properly consider the residential nature of the site.

“We’ve had lots of interest, but not many move forward with the process yet,” Barnes said last month.

The Cannon Beach City Council voted last year to restrict marijuana sales to three separate commercial zones. Under the ordinance, retailers could operate downtown from Ecola Creek south to Washington Street, midtown from Harrison Street south to Elliot Way and in Tolovana Park from Delta Street south to the Sandcastle Condominiums.

Manufacturing and processing still are prohibited because the city has no industrial zoning.
