THE DAILY ASTORIAN // QUESTION OF THE WEEK

Question: Do you have summer vacation plans? If not, why?

"We've been living in our camper van this summer so our whole summer has been a trip."

Lyndsay Pixler,
Tri-Cities, Washington

"No. I don't have any summer vacation plans primarily because I don't plan that far ahead or make enough money to go anywhere."

Tully McDaniel, Astoria

"No. I'm a broke college student trying to make money."

Naselle Youth Camp will live to see another two years

Legislature rejects governor's closure plan

NASELLE, Wash. — Naselle Youth Camp, one of Pacific County's biggest employers, will remain open for at least the next two years.

Washington Gov. Jay Inslee's state budget proposal in December called for closing the medium-security juvenile detention facility, but it managed to survive an unusually controversial and long-running budget negotiation process.

When Inslee signed the final budget on June 30 with less than an hour remaining before the midnight deadline, the youth camp was fully funded — at least until the next round of negotiations in 2019.

"There were a lot of folks that did a lot of hard work within the camp and within the community. I definitely thank all of them and the legislators that came and advocated for us," Pat

Escamilla, the youth camp's director, said.

The news wasn't a total surprise for youth camp staff. A couple of months ago, Escamilla learned that the state House and Senate had both included the camp in their draft budgets. But with contentious negotiations stretching into a second and then third special session, and much of the work being done in secrecy, Escamilla worried that it could still fall through. So it was a relief when he heard the good news "in the eleventh hour."

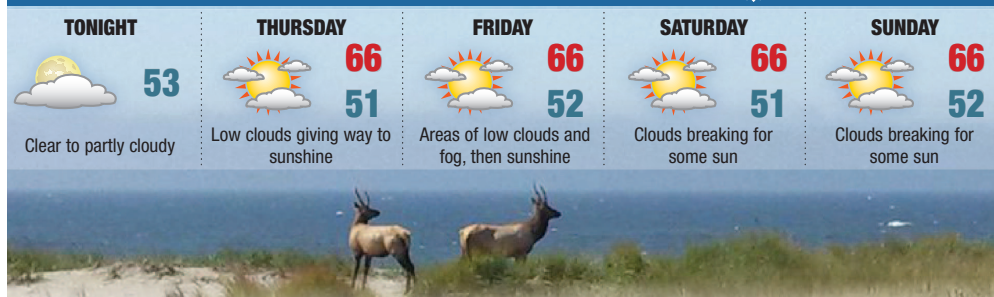

"We had a really good idea that it was not gonna happen, but you just never know," Escamilla said. "I was definitely very pleased that we're staying open."

Inslee said closing the camp would save the state more than $4 million over the two-year budget period. However, the proposal "just didn't make sense" to a lot of people who worked at the youth camp, Escamilla said. Advocates for the camp were skeptical of Inslee's figures, and said the closure might be devastating to the town of Naselle, where there are few other jobs available.

OBITUARIES

Larry Dean Campbell Lake Oswego June 4, 1938 — July 4, 2017

Larry Dean Campbell was born June 4, 1938, in Vallejo, California, and passed away July 4, 2017, in Portland, Oregon, from complications of heart surgery.

He was born to O.W. and Dorothy Campbell in Vallejo, California, and moved to the Warrenton area as a child. He attended school in Warrenton and graduated from Warrenton High School in 1956.

He married Blanche Byrd in 1966, and the couple had three children, Michael, Valerie and Jeffrey.

Larry held various jobs before moving to Lake Oswego in 1961. He became a machinist at Irvington Moore, and worked his way up to production manager before retiring at age 59.

Larry enjoyed building and racing hydroplanes. During that time he built numerous successful hydroplanes that set many world records. He was also a constant innovator throughout his life, including the invention of an automatic actuator drape control.

Later in life he enjoyed reading and doing handy work around the neighborhood. He also always enjoyed working with wood.

He is survived by his wife, Blanche, his three children, six grandchildren and one great-grandchild. He is also survived by his brother, Ron, and sister, Carol.

The family will be holding a public graveside service at Ocean View Cemetery on 18th Street in Warrenton, Oregon, on Friday, July 14, at 2 p.m.

Larry Dean Campbell

Tina Ann Edwards Reno, Nevada March 13, 1959 — June 16, 2017

Tina Ann Edwards of Reno, Nevada, formerly of Seaside, Oregon, passed from this life June 16, 2017, in Reno, Nevada, during open heart surgery.

She was born March 13, 1959, in Dayton, Ohio, to Linda and William Smith. She attended Newport High School and Chemeketa Community College, and was working on a degree in health care management, which was ended by a battle with cancer.

She had a green thumb, was a computer geek, loved knitting and was a loving wife, mother and grandmother. Her life was devoted to working with the developmentally disabled and seniors. Her last position was as director of the Astor House assisted living facility in Astoria, Oregon.

Survivors include her mother, Linda C. Kolman (Jerry) of Beaverton, Oregon; her father, William L. Smith (Debbie) of Sparks, Nevada; her husband, Ron Edwards of Reno, Nevada; two half-sisters, Nikki Cichon and Jaclyn Smith of Reno, Nevada; four children, Jeffrey Durham of Vancouver, Washington, Erik Neuschwander (Sandra) of Oregon City, Oregon, Cory Neuschwander (Teralee) of Astoria, Oregon, and Alexis Neuschwander (Anthony) of Seattle, Washington; and seven grandchildren. She was preceded in death by her twin brothers, Wayne and William Smith, and a sister, Kim A. Smith.

A celebration of life will be held at 11 a.m. Saturday, July 29, 2017, at Cedar Mill Bible Church, 12208 N.W. Cornell Road, Portland, OR 97229. A reception immediately follows.

In lieu of flowers, the family requests memorial contributions to the American Cancer Society, the American Heart Association, or a charity of one's choice.

Tina Ann Edwards

Robert Wayne Corderman Salem July 29, 1953 — July 2, 2017

Bob was born in Toppenish, Washington, the third son of Virginia and Manly Corderman, and brother to Jim and Dennis. The family moved to Kennewick in 1954.

In 1975, Bob married the love of his life, Cindi Swoboda. They lived in Kennewick with their two sons, Benjamin Parker and Clenet Robert until 1982, when the family moved to Astoria, Oregon, where they purchased the Bumblebee Shipyard. In addition to running the shipyard, Bob also worked for James W. Fowler Construction, and was a fish buyer for Astoria Seafood.

Bob was an avid NASCAR fan, motorcycle enthusiast and master woodworker.

During the past year, Bob became ill with liver disease and moved to Arizona for a liver and kidney transplant. This was done on June 8 at the Mayo Clinic in Phoenix. Our family is grateful to the doctors and staff at the Mayo Clinic for their care and concern. We also thank all the members of Mayo's Transplant Support Group who provided constant encouragement.

Bob is survived by wife, Cindi; sons, Ben and Clenet; brother, Dennis; and many loving family members and friends who will always remember Bob's kindness, goodness and sense of humor.

Arrangements are pending. In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to UNOS, United Network of Organ Sharing or B For Life, a foundation for donor awareness.
