Trail's End Gallery — the "Little Red Schoolhouse" — is opening a new show and holding a reception for featured member, Kathy Karbo.

"She has been contemplating the fact that we are all sojourners in this life. Movement is central to life's journey, forever casting humanity into conflict, discovery and adaptation."

Viewers will also see works by many members: Mary Ann Gantenbein, Susan Bish, Judith Fredrickson and Lynda Campbell to name a few.

Besides the gallery of fine art, Trail's End has a gift shop with objects in wood, fused glass, plus many beautiful note cards.

'Living by the Sea' opens at ArtPort Gallery

ILWACO, WASH. — ArtPort's Gallery's new exhibit, titled "Living by the Sea," opens Friday, Aug. 4, with an artist reception from 4 to 7 p.m. Featured artists will be goldsmith Luisa Mack and painter Eric Wiegardt.

"The artists share a common fascination with our local environment and never stop finding inspiration in their surroundings," organizers said. "They will be showing recent work, some of which has not been seen before."

Mack will be exhibiting her newest collection made from silver, speckled with gold and gemstones. She finds inspiration in the movement of water and the pattern it leaves behind. Mack graduated from the University Pforzheim, Germany, well-known for their excellent jewelry-making, with a bachelor's degree in jewelry- and object-design.

Wiegardt is showing his world-renown watercolor and acrylic masterpieces. A long-time resident of the peninsula, he continues to find beauty in the Pacific Ocean. Wiegardt graduated from the American Academy of Art, Chicago, and continues to leave his mark on both the American and International art scene.

The gallery is located at 177 Howerton Way S.E. Ilwaco.
