Jesse Trott, with the Haystack Rock Awareness Program in Cannon Beach, is part of a group of volunteers who spend time providing information to visitors about how to responsibly appreciate the iconic location. "We are environmental educators and interpreters. We come out here to teach people about this environment," she said.

Gary Wahlbeck with Coaster Construction in Cannon Beach puts the finishing touches on what will eventually be cabinets in a new home under construction in the area. "I started out as a silver and goldsmith, and then I was a tile setter, and then I had a repair shop. I've done it all my life," he said.
