

HULL GALLERY

172 N. HEMLOCK STREET | CANNON BEACH
WWW.HULLGALLERY.COM

Jeffrey Hull started painting in his teens but focused on watercolor 45 years ago and never looked back. His command of painting and love for the NW coast puts the viewer of his work right on the beach. Since 1987 Jeff and Carol Hull have been offering watercolors and oils of the beautiful coast to collectors and visitors alike. Looking back, "we were just kids" Hull says about starting their gallery in Sandpiper Square. Originally in only 350 square feet of gallery space, they have grown as the paintings grew larger and quality reproductions became available into what is now a space designed to showcase Jeff's work. If you haven't been to the gallery or haven't been lately be sure to stop by over the weekend and enjoy the Hull's hospitality and see fresh work by this master watercolorist. Jeff and crew will be in the gallery all weekend connecting with old friends and making new ones.

For Stormy Weather Arts Festival Weekend they will offer new paintings and prints including "Snow Day- Cannon Beach" which is available as a giclée print on canvas. Available in two sizes, please visit their website for more information.

SNOW DAY - CANNON BEACH

Fresh snow is generally welcomed for the beauty and calm it brings. We get a dusting a couple of times each winter on the Oregon Coast, but waking up to a blanket of snow is a real treat. As a child growing up in Portland I enjoyed many snow days. As a Cannon Beach resident I can count our snow events on one hand. When snow falls however, everyone's plans are put on hold as we enjoy the wonder and solitude of the moment. I've been planning this painting for decades and this past winter decided it was finally time to put paint to canvas. I chose this location with the beautifully sculpted tree and coastline that includes Haystack Rock because I always navigate there on snowy mornings, knowing inspiration is assured.

Along The Path

Crash-endo

Celebrating our 30th Year & 30th Stormy Weather Arts Festival

Sandpiper Square Cannon Beach, OR 888.436.2606 hullgallery.com