

Oregon Marketplace hosts artists, funds good causes

SEASIDE — It's all going to the dogs (and cats)! Astoria artist Ronni Harris will be having a pop-up event noon to 4 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 4, at Oregon Marketplace in Seaside.

A portion of the proceeds from her dog portraits, tiles and other art will go to Clatsop County Animal Shelter. Oregon Marketplace will be adding to the fund with sales from dog and cat merchandise from the shop.

The shop will also have a wine tasting featuring wine from Dog Gone Wines and OWC Rascal Wines. Come on in, visit with Harris and get your dog's portrait ordered — bring a photo (sorry, no four-legged friends allowed in the store).

Dean Crouser

Oregon Marketplace is thrilled to have Oregon artist, Dean Crouser, in the shop noon to 2 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 11.

Crouser was born and raised in Oregon and his love of fishing, camping and the outdoors can be found in his art. His childhood summers were spent camping and fishing on the foothills of Mt. Hood, Columbia River Gorge and Central Oregon High Lakes.

"I am always striving to say the most with the least and like to keep my work loose and spontaneous."

Get an autograph, view some originals and give to a good cause. Ten percent of Dean Crouser's sales in
