Have a ball at CCC's sports festival!

ASTORIA — Join Clatsop Community College's Leadership Class students at the new Patriot Hall for a charity drive and a week of intramural athletics.

The festivities kick off Tuesday, Nov. 28, and continue through Friday, Dec. 1, with activities each evening from 6 to 8 p.m. All activities are open to the public, ages 16 and up (parental guardians must sign a liability form for participants 16 and 17 years old).

The suggested donation for entry is $2 or one donated item. The classes will be working with the local Food Bank, Clatsop Community Action, the Astoria Warming Center, and Head Start to collect items (canned food, clothing — new coats, jeans, underwear, socks or blankets — or a new toy for a child ages 3 to 5) to donate. Participants will also be entered to win prizes in a raffle.

This festival is a combined effort of the college's four Leadership classes, providing students with the opportunity to learn leadership skills and participate in a service-learning project.

Schedule of activities

- Tuesday, Nov. 28: Dodgeball
- Wednesday, Nov. 29: Basketball
- Thursday, Nov. 30: Indoor Soccer
- Friday, Dec. 1: Capture the Flag

Learn the 'busine$$ of art'

ASTORIA — Art schools, in general, teach the skills to develop an artist's vision or voice. But rarely do they give students the tools to establish stability and prosperity so they can maintain the livelihood they have trained for.

Coming winter term at Clatsop Community College is a 10-week course, "The Busine$$ of Art." Registration begins November 2017.

Held 10 a.m. Saturdays in Towler Hall, starting Jan. 13, the class will endow students with three major skills:

organization, self-promotion and how to find reliable sales opportunities.

The twelve areas covered are: writing the artist statement; business cards; resumes; finding a photographer; portfolio arrangement; looking for a gallery, shop or showroom; applying to shows and exhibitions; writing the press release; show display; studio organization; office and shipping organization; preparing for media questions from the press.

Two or more of these specific areas are combined during the course, one day per week, lasting one and a half hours each.

Every class has Power-Point examples, hands-on activities and valuable contact information. The workbook for the course is $30. At the end of the term, students will have the tools to organize, research, promote and display their work.

"The Busine$$ of Art" is suitable for 2-D and 3-D visual artists, as well as musicians, craftspeople and performers.
