

POINT of view

THE DAILY ASTORIAN // QUESTION OF THE WEEK

'Super Bowl? Do you care?'

"No. I'm just not a football fan. And also because they don't stand for the American flag. That has something to do with it. Whatever this is that's causing them to kneel should not be in that forum. It's a respect thing."

Laurie Roan, Seaside

"No. When I got divorced I gained control of the remote, and never gave it up. Haven't watched a game since 1996."

Cyndi Mudge, Astoria

"No. I'm tired of these billionaires being subsidized by the public."

Sam Devereaux, Astoria

OBITUARIES

Stephen Li Aaron Bokor Svensen June 12, 1988 — Jan. 21, 2018

Stephen Li Aaron Bokor was born in Kodiak, Alaska, on June 12, 1988. The family continued living there until coming to Astoria in 1992. Stephen was a happy child, full of energy, and had a strong circle of good friends.

His passion was sports, especially football, basketball and track. He kept active in those throughout his school years and won many awards.

He was a very loving, giving and passionate person. He touched the hearts of all who met him. He was very much into health and fitness. He took good care of himself and always tried to help his family get healthier.

He loved life, loved people, loved his family, country and the world. He loved traveling and had been many places, including Korea to attend the World Culture and Sports Festival about 10 years ago.

He was also a very skilled poker player, spending much of his 20s succeeding at that. Poker was one of his passions. He traveled a lot, participating in many tournaments, following his dream of someday winning a million so he could buy his parents their dream home by the ocean.

He was an amazing chainsaw artist, creating many beautiful animals out of logs. He worked really hard at it and loved what he did.

He cared deeply about his brothers and sister, and always took time to help them through their struggles. He was also a wonderful uncle to his nephew, Oliver. He always greeted him with a hug and a huge smile. He took the time to talk with him, play with him and laugh with him.

He leaves behind his father and mother, Zola and Sandy Bokor; a brother and sister-in-law, Konlim and Naomi Bokor; a sister and brother-in-law, Jinju and Daniel Brooks; a nephew, Oliver Brooks; a brother, Christopher Bokor; a brother, Zoltan Bokor; plus many more relatives, and too many friends to count.

Dearest Stephen, we love you; not a day will pass that we don't think of you. We will carry your memories and good times in our hearts always.

Stephen Bokor

Albert Pierre Marchand Jr. Reno, Nevada Jan. 13, 1949 — Jan. 8, 2018

Albert Pierre Marchand Jr., known to the world as "Pierre," was born Jan. 13, 1949, in Astoria, Oregon, and died on Jan. 8, 2018, in Reno, Nevada, surrounded by the love of his family. Pierre was the eldest child of Al and Jessie Marchand.

Pierre, along with his sister, Denise, her husband, Doug, and brother, Phil, bought the family seafood business from their parents in 1979. Together they ran the family seafood business, Jessie's Ilwaco Fish Co., with Pierre as president, until they sold it in 2013.

Pierre was known throughout the West Coast seafood industry as a colorful, knowledgeable, innovative businessman, who was an advocate for his trade. Pierre received numerous awards for outstanding service to the seafood industry. Marchand grew up in the seafood industry, working alongside his parents, beginning with Seaside Clam Co., which operated in Seaside and Warrenton, Oregon. Al and Jessie bought Ilwaco Fish Co. in 1962, which they later renamed Jessie's Ilwaco Fish Co.

Pierre loved running the business, and followed this passion all of his life. He also loved to travel and ventured all over the globe for both business and pleasure. He especially liked to go on cruises, many accompanied by his close friends, Nolan and Linda Giddings, and Dan Hess.

Pierre married the love of his life, Colleen Grant, in October 2016, on a covered bridge in New Hampshire, surrounded by friends and family. The last two years with Colleen were some of the happiest days of his life, which was apparent to all who knew him.

He is survived by his wife, Colleen; and her daughters, Elizabeth and Avery; his sister, Denise, and her husband, Doug Ross, who was also Pierre's business partner, and their two children, Heather (Josh) Steffl and Collin (Madeline) Ross; his brother, Phil, also his business partner, and his wife, Elena, and his great-niece and nephew, Sienna and River.

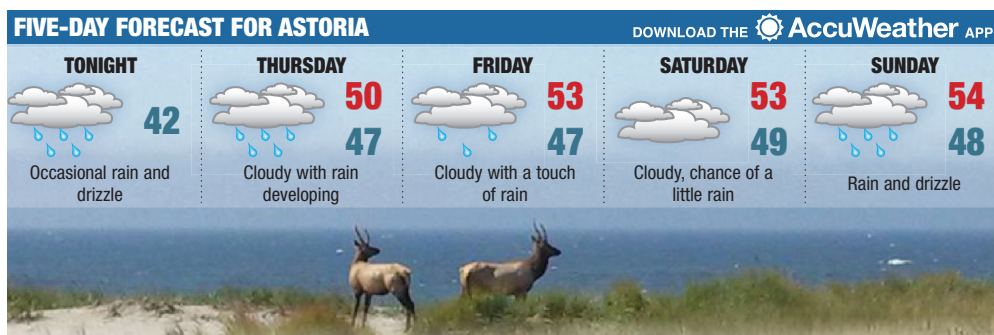

Pierre's humor and generosity will be missed by all.

There will be a celebration of life for Pierre on April 14, 2018, at the Columbia Pacific Heritage Museum, 115 Lake St. S.E., in Ilwaco, Washington, from 2 to 4 p.m. Refreshments will be served.

Memorial donations in memory of Pierre Marchand can be made to: Western Fishboat Owners Association, P.O. Box 992723, Redding, CA 96099, or the organization of your choice.

Gregory E. Newenhof

It is with great sadness we must report that Gregory E. Newenhof passed away unexpectedly but peacefully Sunday, Jan. 28, 2018 at his home in Astoria, Oregon.

Greg was born on July 8, 1956 to Gerald E. Newenhof and Nancy M. Price Newenhof in Yakima, Washington.

Greg lived in the Pacific Northwest his whole life, moving with his family as Jerry took different positions in the home improvement industry.

Greg graduated from Cleveland High School in Portland, Oregon, in 1974. In 1978 he graduated from Portland State University with a bachelor's degree in economics and business. While in college he joined the Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity, where he lived and gained lifelong friends.

When his parents purchased City Lumber Company in Astoria, Oregon, in 1975, Greg moved to Astoria to work at the store when school was out. After he graduated, Greg planned to bum around for a while before he figured out what to do for a career. Just a few weeks after he graduated, Jerry tracked Greg down in California and asked him to come back to work because an employee was injured. Greg didn't come back then, but a few days later a second phone call from Jerry, and an offer of a free plane ticket brought Greg back to Astoria, and he started working full time at City Lumber.

After Jerry passed away in 1991, Greg successfully ran City Lumber Company with his brother Jeff Newenhof. The Newenhofs were recognized by the Western Building Materials Association as the 2017 Distinguished Dealer of the year.

Greg enjoyed volunteering, but usually behind the scenes. You would find him setting up the Rotary Booth at the Crab Festival, helping fix up the Armory and Camp Kiwanilong, setting up bleachers for the Regatta Parade and several other projects. He loved to walk on the beach and around the city of Astoria.

In 2015, Greg surprised himself and his family, and purchased the historic Capt. George Conrad Flavel home on 15th and Franklin in Astoria. Greg's efforts to restore the long-abandoned home garnered great attention in the community. An open house held in 2016 brought more than 800 people into the home and raised money for the Clatsop County Historical Society. Greg's efforts were noted by the Astoria-Warrenton Area Chamber of Commerce when he was given the chamber's George Award in 2017.

Greg often laughed that he had spent all his life happily living in the background but buying the George Conrad Flavel home thrust him into the spotlight. He enjoyed the fact that his work on the Flavel home was so appreciated.

Greg was preceded in death by his mother and father, Nancy and Jerry Newenhof. Greg is survived by his brother Jeff, and Jeff's wife Beth, and their children Gerry and Sadie, his Aunt Delta Bootsma of Sunnyside, Washington, and several cousins.

Like his mother, Greg did not want a local service. He will be buried at a graveside service in Yakima, Washington, Thursday, Feb. 1 alongside his mother and father at Terrace Heights Memorial Park.

Remembrances can be made to the Clatsop County Historical Society or the Columbia River Maritime Museum.
