

Photos on the beach by Don Frank Photography followed. “One of the reasons I wanted Don is because his style is casual and vibrant; he doesn’t do a lot of cliché stuff. Ian hates having his picture taken—Don’s style is very candid. He’s local and he knows the beach. He really captured the personality of our wedding,” said Kristin.

After the ceremony, the whole wedding trekked up from Avenue U to the Seaside Golf Course. Guests enjoyed a smoked brisket BBQ dinner from Seaside Brewing Company and Seaside Golf Course provided picnic sides like potato salad.

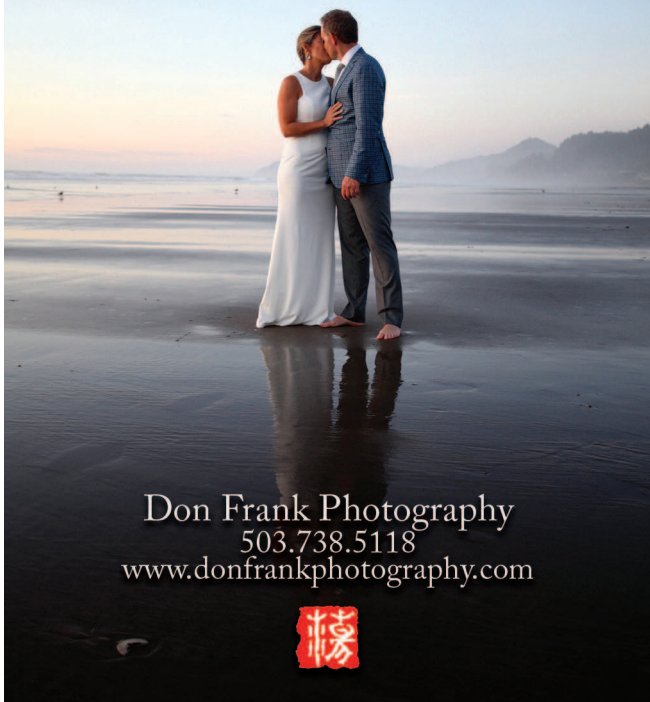

As the evening approached, “The Mutineers”—a husband and wife folk rock duo from Portland provided music—the same group that Kristin and Ian used to listen to on Sunday nights at the Seaside Brewing Company when they were still single and getting to know each other. “We circled around each other for about six months before hanging out,” laughed Kristin. He asked me out to music one night and I said “I’ll meet you there.” But Ian countered, “I was hoping I could pick you up.” That’s when Kristin thought “oh it’s a date.”

Ian recalls the evolution of their romance. “What drew me to Kristin was really how organically our relationship started. We went on a casual date and two weeks later I realized that we had spent every day together since. It was really easy,” he said. Although community is a big part of the new couple’s life, they’re also looking forward to a travel—just the two of them—a passion they share. “We both love to travel and she’s my partner in crime,” he said. ❤️

“Ian grew up here and I’m active in the community so between the two of us it feels like we know everyone in town.”
