

OBITUARIES

Sheila G. Pierce

Hammond

July 12, 1946 — Feb. 1, 2018

Sheila Gail Pierce was born in San Diego, California, to Helen and Phil Misner, and was their eldest child. They preceded her in death, along with her brother, Michael Misner. Sheila passed away with family by her side.

Sheila and her husband, Jim Pierce, are the owner-operators of J&S Appliance and Home Furnishings in Warrenton. They moved to Astoria in 1984, opening the original J&S in the basement of Hildebrand's Furniture on Commercial Street, moved to the Greenberg building, then Sheila designed and helped to build the store at the current location with her father. She was the chef behind the J&S taco feed and customer appreciation day each September.

Sheila is survived by her husband, Jim; daughter Tawni Massey, granddaughter Tara Massey, and her great-granddaughters, Jazmyn and Madisyn; son Larry Pierce, and grandsons Micheal and Jimmie Pierce; son Paul and daughter-in-law Michele Pierce, grandson Tanner, and granddaughter Rylee; and grandsons Mackenzie and Derek Pierce, and granddaughter Makaylah Pierce. She was preceded in death by a son, Kevin Pierce. Sheila is also survived by brothers Gerry and Philip Misner; and sister Shelly Phipps.

Sheila was a kind, loving, giving person who always wanted to make people feel loved and accepted. She was a foster parent, and donated to many causes. She was always available for her children and grandchildren. She was known as "Meme" to her grandchildren, and all of their friends. She said, and sincerely meant, "All I ever wanted was to be a mother and grandmother."

She lived her whole life giving to others; whether it was her time, her energy, her money, or her strength.

Sheila had the ability to see the potential in you that sometimes you did not see in yourself.

She will be sorely missed.

A celebration of life will be held at Gateway Community Church in Hammond on Saturday, Feb. 10, 2018, at 11 a.m. A cookie and coffee reception follows.

Donations can be made to River of Life "Love Missions," 1000 Avenue F, Seaside, OR 97138.

Sgt. Goodding remembered at vigil

Hundreds turn out in rain

By R.J. MARX
The Daily Astorian

SEASIDE — Two years ago, Seaside Police Sgt. Jason Goodding was killed while attempting to serve a warrant. He was the 183rd Oregon law enforcement officer to die in the line of duty.

Under a light but steady drizzle, hundreds of law enforcement officers, first responders and visitors came to the police station Monday night to remember their colleague and friend.

"Tonight we share with you our raw emotions," Lt. Bruce Holt, Seaside's longest-service police officer, told the crowd. "We will continue to go where others will not. We understand the past that has been placed before us and know that it is ours to deal with. We accept."

The 2017 remembrance had been a private affair, held among the closely knit law enforcement community.

This year's remembrance presented a different focus. "I wanted to make sure the community could join us this year," Holt said. "I want the community to know we appreciate everything they've done for us the last two years."

Sgt. Johannes Korpela read a poem in Goodding's honor and Sgt. Josh Gregory shared country song lyrics from the music Goodding loved: "Always stay humble and kind."

Police Chief Dave Ham requested a moment of silence as the crowd held candles.

Visitors remained after chaplain Andy Klumper's benediction, sharing a sense not only of loss for Goodding but an appreciation of the brotherhood of officers.

"It doesn't seem to get easier, but it's good to see all this support that's out here," Cannon Beach Police Chief Jason Schermerhorn, a former Seaside officer and friend of Goodding, said. "Time goes by, but you still have these remembrances. It brings you back where you were that night, all the different emotions, the anger and the sadness, and just trying to be there for family and close friends."

Tigard Police Officer Brandon Petersen left Seaside shortly before Goodding's death, but he recalled lessons learned. "He was always the kind of guy who, even as a supervisor, was out there and working hard on the street," Petersen said. "He'd always want to help you out."

Among those who toured the police station after the vigil to view the cards, letters and condolences that poured in after Goodding's death were Mayor Jay Barber and his wife, Jan.

"It's a wonderful tribute to Jason," Barber said. "He will never be forgotten in the community. It shows not only the character of the department, but the love for him and his family."
