

COURTESY EVERETT BONE

Everett Bone

Everett Bone returns to Seaside as one-man band

SEASIDE — Everett Bone returns to Seaside Brewing Co. (851 Broadway St.) for a couple of sets of live music as a one-man band 7:30 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 11.

Bone juggles a few music projects ranging from rock to something he has a hard time describing but likes to call “steamgypunkjazzrocksurfggrass.” The last time he played in Seaside, it was with this eclectic mix of music in his band Cascadian Airship.

An accomplished musician and songwriter, Bone is well-versed in many instruments. He’s been singing and playing guitar in solo shows off and on for more than 15 years. He recently added drums his repertoire.

“I noticed that people would dance more if there was a band with a beat, yet a lot of venues don’t make it profitable for bands anymore. So I put pedals on a snare and kick drum, and shazam! I’m a band with only one person to pay,” Bone said. “I miss the layered instrumentation of a full band when I play like this, but it’s fun in a different way, and a challenge to try and play with all appendages while singing.”

Everett Bone has opened for many well-known acts, including Eddie Money, Blue Oyster Cult, Kansas and Lynyrd Skynyrd, and has been recording music of various styles and genres for more than 20 years.

Expect to hear songs you know and some original music as well.

Spencer & Rains play old-time music at KALA

ASTORIA — KALA welcomes lauded old-time music duo Spencer & Rains in concert 7:30 p.m. Monday, Feb. 12. Doors open at 7 p.m. The cover is $10 at the door.

The duo from Kansas, currently on tour, has been featured in Mother Jones, the New York Times, No Depression, Fretboard Journal and other publications.

Tricia Spencer is a Kansas fiddler who grew up learning the tradition of old-time music from her grandparents. She is a multi-instrumentalist who studied with some of the great masters and is a highly sought-after performer, dance fiddler and instructor.

Howard Rains is a native Texas artist and a fourth-generation fiddler (or “vy-lin,” as his grandfather would say) from a musical and artistic family whose two obsessions are painting and playing his home state’s archaic style of fiddling.

Together, Spencer & Rains, a husband-and-wife duo, have performed and taught nationally and internationally, preserving and

COURTESY KALA

Spencer &amp; Rains

building upon the traditions of their region.

For more information, visit spencerandrains.com.

KALA is located at 1017 Marine Drive. Beer, wine and cocktails will be available. Anyone 16 and older is welcome.

WINGS prepares for takeoff Feb. 10

ASTORIA — Women: Now is the time to get started on the rest of your life, and Women Interested in Going to School (WINGS) can help.

Clatsop Community College and the Astoria and Seaside branches of the American Association of University Women are again offering women in our area the opportunity to attend an award-winning conference about returning to education.

The 2018 WINGS conference will be held 8 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 10, in Columbia Hall of Clatsop Community College (1651 Lexington Ave.).

The daylong event is free to all women wanting to return to school and gain skills to enrich their lives. Women may return to earn their GED, to start or finish vocational certificates or college degrees, to develop new job skills and to train for a new career.

College staff will provide information about admissions, scholarships, financial aid, career planning, non-traditional careers, conquering math anxiety and support services for the transition to college and success as a student.

A half-day program, WINGS Latina, is also available for women who wish to attend CCC’s classes, including those offered in Spanish.

Participants receive educational benefits as well as free lunch. Free professional daycare is provided on site for children under 12.

For more information, or to register for the conference, visit wings-clatsop.com or call 503-717-1852. Preregistration (online or by phone) is required. For WINGS Latina, call 503-338-2379.

WINGS

(Women INterested in Going to School)

COURTESY AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF UNIVERSITY WOMEN