

OBITUARIES

Terry Lynn Higgins Carstens

Warrenton

April 28, 1946 — Jan. 23, 2018

A celebration of life will be held for Terry Carstens at 1 p.m. Saturday, March 3, 2018, at Calvary Episcopal Church, 503 Holladay Drive in Seaside, Oregon. She was taken to heaven in God's loving arms Jan. 23, 2018.

Terry was born April 28, 1946, in Myrtle Point, Oregon, to James and Mildred Higgins, who have preceded her in death.

She is survived by her sister and brother-in-law, Bonnie and Pete Christosen; her brother, John Higgins; her Aunt Marg; many nieces, nephews and cousins; and many dear friends who were travel buddies, Sweet Adeline sisters, Cannon Beach Chorus singers/friends, sewing/knitting companions, Bunco competitors, TOPS ladies, antique collectible hunters and sacred friends who trusted their homes and pets into her loving care.

A vast network of people loved Terry, and she loved them. Always thinking the best of everyone, she humbly gave her heart and shoulder for comfort more times than can be numbered. She was a "rock" and "savior" for many of us. Many were the same for her.

Growing up in Coquille, Oregon, Terry graduated from Coquille High School in 1964, and she stayed in contact with some of her high school classmates. Keeping in contact with friends and family was her special outlet. Professionally, she worked for many years as a successful trained beautician, managing salons in Coquille and Seaside, Oregon, and Ocean Park, Washington. Terry retired after many years being "on her feet," she would share.

Terry Carstens

Always dedicated, you could find her frequently sharing her talent at Eda Lindstrom's fabric and yarn shop, Custom Threads, in Astoria, Oregon, using her sewing, knitting and crochet gifts to teach and create special handmade items for people. She loved Quilt Run Week at Custom Threads, helping customers choose yardage and quilting materials. This was her special world.

Terry remained dedicated to the Seaside TOPS club, serving as secretary for many years, and frequently volunteered to make coffee, clean up after meetings and work on many committees. She had a special love for her TOPS friends.

Music was also a passion, and she was a proud past bass singer with Sweet Adeline's International, singing four-part harmony. Then Terry found a new home with the Cannon Beach Chorus, singing the classics. She was in heaven! Whether it was going to practice, or dressing for a performance, that was real living to her.

Terry's passing touched all of us, in so many ways. Let us remember her by making a generous contribution in her memory, in lieu of flowers, to: Cannon Beach Chorus, P.O. Box 725, Cannon Beach, OR 97110.

Universal health care measure dies in the Oregon Senate

SALEM — A legislative referral to ask voters to amend the Oregon Constitution to make access to cost-effective and affordable health care the right of all residents lacks the votes to pass the state Senate, according to Senate Democrats.

Despite proposed wording changes, there were still concerns about individuals suing the state, said state Sen. Laurie Monnes Anderson, D-Gresham, chairwoman of the Senate Health Committee. "We were just down to the wire. Trying to come to an agreement on language changes was just really tough," she said.

The measure, called House Joint Referral 203, passed the House along party lines this month.

Monnes Anderson announced Monday that her committee would not hold a vote on the referral. Even though the committee had enough votes to send the measure to the Senate floor, there are not enough votes to pass the bill in the larger body, she said.

"The bill would have needed extensive amendments for it to get the support it needs in the Senate, and given this late timing in the session, the committee chair give them the opportunity to tell us whether they really believe that universal access to health care is something that our citizens deserve and that we should take seriously as we consider how we move forward in dealing with the health care system," he said.

Using a catchphrase from the 1984 science fiction film, "The Terminator," Greenlick said: "I will be back."

The practical impact of creating such a right was unclear. House Speaker Tina Kotek and Majority Leader Jennifer Williamson, both Democrats from Portland, described the measure primarily as "aspirational," but some legal experts said adding the right to the Constitution could spur litigation.

"I think we all agree that health care should be an inalienable right for everyone. I'm concerned that you send it to the voters and the voters say 'yes' and it comes back, at what expense do we pay for it?" said Sen. Alan DeBoer, R-Ashland, a member of the Senate Health Care Committee. "We need the federal government to come to the table. I have always been a supporter of single payer ... but how do you pay for it once you approve it and the lawsuits?"

made the difficult decision to not move forward with it," said Senate Majority Leader Ginny Burdick, D-Portland.

Had the referral been approved in the Legislature, the proposal would have gone to voters in the November general election.

In the House, all 35 Democrats voted for the measure, while the 25 Republicans opposed it.

State Rep. Mitch Greenlick, D-Portland, who has repeatedly sponsored the measure, said this is the third consecutive time the Senate has blocked the referral.

In light of federal efforts to overturn the Affordable Care Act, Greenlick said it is important for Oregon voters to weigh in on whether they want health care to be accessible to everyone.

"I think we are making a terrible mistake not to
