Tugboat and barge reportedly hit boat on Columbia River

Associated Press

PORTLAND — Officials say a tugboat and barge hit a smaller vessel on the Columbia River, tossing the smaller boat's occupants into the water. The Oregonian reported that there were no injuries in the Wednesday morning collision. Coast Guard Petty Officer Amanda Norcross said the incident happened downriver of Longview, Washington, near Willow Grove Park.

Norcross said the tugboat and barge reportedly hit the 20-foot pleasure craft and caused the smaller vessel to capsize. She said there was zero visibility at the time because of thick fog. Norcross said someone picked up the two people who had been fishing from the smaller boat and took them to shore. Coast Guard investigators from Portland are looking into what happened and whether any enforcement action needs to be taken, she said.

Jean Francis Gill Vancouver, Washington June 8, 1939 — March 14, 2018

Jean Francis Gill, longtime resident of Portland, Oregon, died peacefully on Wednesday, March 14, surrounded by her family, after living the past several years with Alzheimer's. Jean is survived by her husband of 54 years, Marty Gill; their children, Amy Rose, Susie Costa and Mark Gill; and their grandchildren, Matt and Hailey Rose and Jake, Ethan and Naomi Costa. Jean was born in Nebraska on June 8, 1939, to Wilfred and Francis Reifennath. She moved to the Northwest to attend Marylhurst University, and received her degree in education. She began her teaching career in Portland, and soon thereafter met and married Marty Gill on Oct. 12, 1963. During their 54 years of marriage, Marty and Jean lived life to the absolute fullest. They raised their three children in Portland, and retired to the Oregon Coast over 15 years ago, enjoying the home they built in Gearhart, Oregon. They also built a very strong community of friends in Gearhart, where Jean enjoyed volunteering with the local American Association of University Women group, weekly walks and exercise classes with friends, gardening, golfing and enjoying her 5 p.m. "medicinal" glass of red wine. Marty and Jean were able to spend many years of their retirement traveling abroad together, which was an adventure they looked forward to planning each year. Jean was a devout Catholic all her life and lived as a very kind-hearted, compassionate, gracious, sweet wife, mother and friend, and lived these qualities until the end of her life. A Mass will be held to celebrate Jean's life Thursday, April 5, at All Saint's Catholic Church, 3847 N.E. Glisan St. in Portland, Oregon. There will be a rosary at 10:30 a.m., followed by a Mass at 11 a.m., officiated by Marty and Jean's family friend, Monsignor Tim Murphy. Flowers or condolences may be sent to All Saint's Church for Thursday's service. Any donations to help end Alzheimer's can be sent to the Alzheimer's Foundation of America at alzfdn.org, or to Jean's local involvement with the Seaside AAUW, Seaside AAUW Scholarship Foundation, P.O. Box 693, Seaside, OR 97138.
