Marches, bill signings mark May Day celebrations in the Pacific Northwest

Associated Press

SALEM — Hundreds of people rallied at the Oregon State Capitol Tuesday holding signs saying "Stop ICE raids" and "Keep Oregon a Sanctuary State" to mark May Day in the Pacific Northwest.

Gov. Kate Brown signed bills into law to support Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals recipients and immigrants as part of the celebration.

"The chaos and uncertainty coming from the White House is in direct conflict with our nation's history, economy, and respect for our immigrant communities," Brown, a Democrat, said in a statement. "In our Oregon, we will continue working to create an inclusive state and thriving communities, where everyone has the opportunity to provide a better life for their families."

Police in Seattle made one arrest in what were largely peaceful demonstrations.

The Seattle Police Department says a masked man was arrested Tuesday afternoon for throwing a rock at Amazon's newest headquarters building known as The Spheres.

The Seattle Times reported Amazon had locked doors throughout their campus in preparation for rallies including the March for Immigrant

CANDIDATE PROFILE

Peter Roscoe

Editor's note: The candidate profile for Peter Roscoe that appeared in the primary voters guide on Friday incorrectly included information from another candidate. We are publishing the correct version below.

Candidate for Clatsop County commissioner, District 3, which covers central Astoria as well as Miles Crossing, Jeffers Garden, Fort Clatsop, Lewis and Clark, Youngs River, Olney, Green Mountain and parts of Walluski.

BIOGRAPHICAL INFORMATION

A 1964 graduate of Star of the Sea High School, I have been an environmental activist, tree planter, fisherman, city councilor, filmmaker and chef/owner of three restaurants. I have volunteered, contributed and supported many causes in our community: Court Appointed Special Advocates, the Assistance League, Liberty Theatre, Women's Resource Center, Salmon For All, Knappa School Foundation, Astoria High School, Astoria Middle School and Astor Elementary School, Astoria Regatta. The list goes on and on because I believe in community and service.

I ask for your vote because you know me and you trust me. I am a pragmatic problem solver not governed by a political platform.

PUBLIC SERVICE OR VOLUNTEER POSITIONS

- Astoria Planning Commission, 2004-2005
- Astoria City Council, 2005-2012
- President, Astoria Regatta, 2013-2014
- Oregon Restaurant & Lodging Association Board, 2005-2016
- Oregon Department of Fish and Wildlife/WAFW Joint Task Force, 2006-2012
- Col-Pac Regional Economic Development Board, 2006-present

WHY DID YOU CHOOSE TO RUN FOR PUBLIC OFFICE?

Clatsop County needs leadership that is both a strong steward of its land and is business-friendly. If we are to address the pressing need for workforce housing, we need to keep the family wage jobs we have and find new opportunities for more jobs. We cannot do this in a climate that discourages development. As businesses approach us we must communicate our stewardship so that they understand that we want them here, but our environmental standards must be met before we allow them the opportunity. I believe most businesses welcome a clear path and will be glad to meet our demands if the regulations are set forth from the beginning.

HOW WOULD YOU MAKE A DIFFERENCE IF ELECTED?

I have been a friend and neighbor of thousands of county residents for many years. I am open to new and old ideas without being held to a partisan position dictated by metropolitan politicians. I cherish the natural beauty of our area. I believe that being a county commissioner will give me the opportunity to preserve the county's unique and singular nature while furthering the economic growth we need. Clatsop County is an extremely important cog in Oregon's future and this position has a requirement to lead toward that future.

Oregon, Washington sue EPA over emission standards

By ERICKA CRUZ GUEVARRA
Oregon Public Broadcasting

Oregon and Washington state are joining a coalition of 17 states and the District of Columbia in suing the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and its administrator Scott Pruitt over the decision to roll back greenhouse gas emissions standards for vehicles built between 2022 and 2025.

The states argue those emissions standards for cars and light-duty truck models were put in place to help reduce carbon pollution and oil consumption.

"The vehicle emissions standards protect the environment and save consumers money with better fuel economy," said Washington Attorney General Bob Ferguson in a press release.

"The EPA once again is ignoring the needs of consumers, its duty to protect the environment and most importantly, the law."

Pruitt, the EPA administrator, has said the standards are costly for automakers and consumers. The EPA began re-examining emissions standards last year.

The states have questioned the EPA's decisions on emissions standards throughout the process. In June, they sent a letter to Pruitt threatening legal action and arguing that those cars and light-duty trucks are responsible for 20 percent of greenhouse gas emissions.

The coalition has argued that the car industry is already on track to meet or exceed many of the standards the EPA has argued are too costly for the industry.

Committee weighs plans for scenic waterway on the Nehalem River

The Daily Astorian

A committee tasked with developing a draft management plan for a segment of the Nehalem River will meet May 24.

The meeting will include an overview of the state's Scenic Waterways Program and development of the draft management plan. The meeting begins at 5:30 p.m. at the Nehalem Bay State Park meeting hall, 34600 Garey St., Nehalem.

A 17.5-mile long segment of the Nehalem River, beginning at Henry Rierson Spruce Run Campground and ending at the confluence of Cook Creek near Cougar Valley State Park, is being considered for designation as a state scenic waterway.

The program protects existing scenic, natural and recreational values. There are 22 designated waterways throughout the state, including portions of the Clackamas, the Rogue, the Nestucca and the John Day rivers.

The draft plan will help the Oregon State Parks and Recreation Commission analyze the merits of the proposed designation.
