

OUR IDEAS STAND ON THERE OWN

OUT THERE

Building a robot that can stand and walk on two legs is hard. So hard that few have even tried. But faculty and students in Oregon State's top-5-in-the-nation robotics program have figured it out — creating robots that are much more capable. Now, an OSU spinoff company, Agility Robotics, is working on robots that can do everything from package delivery to search-and-rescue missions.

At Oregon State, we push ourselves to the very edge of what's known — and keep going OUT THERE.

Emerald Heights Apartments was purchased by the Smith family in 1992. Emerald Heights was initially Navy and Coast Guard housing. The Smith's have been rehabilitating all buildings on the property, including new windows, lighting, flooring, roofing, carpeting, stoves and refrigerators. Each building has its own coin-operated laundry facility. Electricity, water, sewer, and garbage are included with rent.

The property is extremely clean and well maintained.
