

'ALL ABOUT HANDS'

Artists from France hold farewell potluck for exhibit on Sept. 30

By KATHERINE LACAZE
FOR COAST WEEKEND

The hand is an integral part of the human experience. With this tool, people work, eat, create, communicate, cultivate, express affection and do violence.

When Yves Prince and Ariane Pick traveled from Paris to Astoria to create an art exhibition, their goal was to capture everything the hand represents and is capable of. Thus, "L'eloge de la Main, All About Hands" was born.

"We touch and we are constantly touching with the hand," Prince said. "There is a story of work, love and affection."

There's still time to check out their exhibition, which runs through the end of the month, at Wake's Secret Gallery on 10th Street. The public can visit from 2 to 7 p.m. through Sunday,

IF YOU GO

"L'eloge de la Main, All About Hands" farewell potluck

When: 2 to 7 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 30

Where: Wake's Secret Gallery, 160 10th St.

Exhibit viewable 2 p.m. to 7 p.m. through Sunday and by appointment: 424-371-4321

Sept. 30.

The show will close with a farewell pot luck, as is traditional in France. Everyone is invited to join Sunday, Sept. 30, and bring a food or drink item to share if desired. The event will include a drawing and silent

Continued on Page 16

YVES PRINCE PHOTO

Young art enthusiasts at Yves Prince and Ariane Pick's exhibit opening at Wake's Secret Gallery.

A painting in Ariane Pick and Yves Prince's exhibit 'L'eloge de la Main, All About Hands.'