Paving could disrupt traffic in Astoria

The Daily Astorian

Astoria's 2018 Paving Project has scheduled street striping today and Friday at the following locations: 11th Street from Duane to Exchange streets; Franklin Avenue from 10th to 12th streets; Irving Avenue from 16th to 18th streets; 15th Street from Duane to Franklin; Cedar Street from 48th to 49th streets; and West Grand Avenue from Lincoln Street to West Lexington Avenue.

Temporary traffic delays and road closures should be expected, and drivers should use alternate routes where possible. All schedules are subject to change in the event of unfavorable weather conditions.

For questions, call Astoria Public Works Engineering at 503-338-5173.

Work on downtown bridges begins Monday

The Daily Astorian

Construction on three of Astoria's six waterfront bridges begins Monday.

The Astoria Riverwalk is expected to close to all pedestrian traffic between Sixth Street and 11th Street by the end of next week to accommodate work on the bridges at the base of Seventh, Ninth and 11th streets. The Astoria Riverfront Trolley will continue to operate through Sunday, but will not run again until June.

City leaders had worried the long-planned work on the short bridges that provide access to the city's piers would not begin at all this year after bids came in over budget. But now the project is back on schedule and Legacy Contracting Inc will replace the first three bridges this year.

Construction is expected to continue through May.

The next set of bridges — at Sixth, Eighth and 10th streets — will be replaced beginning in October 2019 and continuing through May 2020.

Businesses located in the project area will remain open during construction. The stretch between Sixth Street and 11th Street is home to Buoy Beer Co. and the many businesses housed inside the Pier 11 building at the base of 11th Street, as well as other enterprises.

TOMORROW'S NATIONAL WEATHER

Pat 'Cro' Croghan Jewell

Oct. 12, 1946 — Sept. 18, 2018

Patrick Earl Croghan, beloved son, father, brother, grandfather and friend, passed away Sept. 18 at his home in Jewell at the age of 71. A resident of Jewell for the past 30 years, he was known locally as "Cro," and was a familiar figure in the North Oregon Coast community.

Croghan was born Oct. 12, 1946, in Roseburg, to Earl Croghan and Betty Lou Morris. He graduated from Reynolds High School in Troutdale in 1964, and married Robin Riebesel, his high school sweetheart. They would be married for 25 years and raise three kids, who were his pride and joy.

While attending Eugene Technical College, Croghan began his career at Albany Plywood. He later worked for Price Industrial, where he became part owner. He then worked for Hyster Sales Co., where he started as a service technician, and was quickly promoted to salesman. He was with Hyster for 35 years, and retired in 2009.

An avid outdoorsman, Croghan never missed a chance to go hunting or fishing. He was the proprietor of the famous "B Camp Bull Team," a well-known crew of fellow deer and elk hunters in the Coastal Range. Outside of the season, his day almost always included making time for "grinnin' and lookin'." In addition, his boat, The Peddler, could often be seen at Buoy 10 and running up the Columbia River.

Croghan was an accomplished storyteller, with a big heart and a unique love of social gatherings. His home in Jewell — known to everyone as "Cro's Place" — was a regular stop for friends and neighbors to pull up a chair, shoot the breeze, and sip a cold one.

Patrick Earl Croghan is survived by his daughters, Michele and Christy; his son, Patrick (or "Junior," as his dad called him); his grandsons, Garrett, Lewis and Hayden; his granddaughter, Regan; and many beloved extended family members.

He was preceded in death by his father, Earl, his mother, Betty, and his brother, Jerry.

A celebration of his life was held on Sunday, Sept. 25, at Camp 18, from 1 to 3 p.m.

Funeral arrangements are in the care of Hughes-Ransom Mortuary and Crematory in Astoria, Oregon (hughes-ransom.com).
