

POINT of view

THE DAILY ASTORIAN // QUESTION OF THE WEEK

Veterans Day is on Sunday. What would you like to say to our veterans?

"Thank you for your service and commitment to our nation. We couldn't survive without them and their sense of duty and humanity — one main reason we should take our responsibility and vote."

Eric David, Astoria

"Happy Veterans Day, and thank you for serving. My husband's a veteran, too."

Karen Deutschman, Astoria

"Thank you. Just thank you. They really make a sacrifice, and I appreciate it."

Ruth Johnson, Warrenton

First coho in 40 years return to Lostine River

A coho salmon.

For the past 40 years, something has been missing from the Lostine River: coho salmon. Now, 42 coho have made it to the waters in the past two weeks.

"It's so exciting," said Becky Johnson, with the Nez Perce Tribe.

For the tribe, seeing coho salmon reach the Lostine River is a blessing, after they blinked out more than 40 years ago.

"When one species is gone, it affects more than just that species or the people that are harvesting it at that time. It affects the birds and the bears and the coyotes. It's a big circle of life-type thing," Johnson said.

Bringing coho back to the Grande Ronde basin has been a goal for the tribe since Johnson started working there 25 years ago.

"We didn't know what to expect, and we're very happy to see the amount of fish coming back that we've started to track," she said.

She says, historically, salmon returned to the Grande Ronde basin year-round — around 20,000 of them were coho. That is until dams on the Columbia and Snake rivers blocked their passage.

Biologists have released 1 million young coho into the Lostine River over a 2-year period. The fish "imprint" on the water and learn where to come back as adults.

These young fish were trucked in from a hatchery far downstream. Johnson said they weren't sure if the fish had enough time in Lostine River water to successfully "imprint" and find home after they spent time in the ocean.

But it looks like it's working. The first female coho returned to the mouth of the Lostine River on Oct. 22.

During the last two weeks, the tribe has seen 42 coho reach the Lostine.

Johnson said the Nez Perce Tribe is monitoring tags on the fish and thinks around 600 have passed the Lower Granite Dam in southeastern

Washington state. That dam on the lower Snake River is the last hurdle they face.

Johnson said the numbers are a big feat, especially after recent poor ocean conditions.

"The return of coho salmon this year are the progeny of coho from 2015 — and that was one of the worst years we'd seen in a long time. Not only were there fewer juveniles that were going out to the ocean, but the ocean conditions were really poor," Johnson said. "We're super hopeful that the ocean conditions will turn around."

The tribe will continue to release young salmon for five years. Tribal members hope to eventually collect at least 500 adult coho to breed fish that have made it back to the Lostine. One day, they want the fish to support tribal and nontribal fisheries and reproduce naturally.

OBITUARIES

Carl Delmer 'Del' Boman Astoria Jan. 20, 1923 — Nov. 3, 2018

Carl Delmer "Del" Boman passed away very peacefully at the age of 95 at Clatsop Care Center.

Del was born in Astoria, Oregon, on Jan. 20, 1923, to Olof Boman and Anna Nilsen Boman. He spent his first eight years in the Larson Logging Camp in Deep River, Washington.

The family moved to Astoria in June 1931, where he attended Lewis & Clark Consolidated Grade School and graduated in 1941 from Astoria High School.

He enlisted in the Navy Seabees in 1942, and spent three years in the Aleutian Islands and the New Hebrides and Wake Island before being discharged in December 1945.

He married Maryann Mattson on Sept. 8, 1946, in Astoria, Oregon, and they lived in the Lewis & Clark area for the next 50 years.

He was a partner with Ray Johansen in Johansen & Boman Rafting Co. from 1952 to 1958, and was then employed as a boom man (log rafter) for 38 years with W & W Logging and Nygaard Logging.

He was a lifetime member of the Astoria Elks Lodge No. 180, and American Legion Post No. 12, plus he was a longtime driver who transported blood to the American Red Cross Blood Donation Center in Portland.

He is survived by a son, Dick Boman, of Astoria; a daughter, Carol (Tom) Atwood, of Astoria; a grandson, Andy Lindstrom, of Astoria; a sister-in-law, Jean Mattson, of Richmond, Texas; and four nieces and two cousins in the U.S., plus numerous cousins in Sweden.

He was preceded in death by his parents, Olof (1975) and Anna (1978); and his wife, Maryann (1999).

At his request there will be no service. Donations can be made to any charity of your choice.

Marie E. Lampi Astoria Dec. 5, 1937 — Oct. 31, 2018

Marie E. Lampi was born to Leslie and Beatrice (Cowan) DeGandi in Portland, Oregon, on Dec. 5, 1937.

Marie married Melvin on Nov. 12, 1955. Together they raised three daughters, Judith Lampi and Heidi, of Warrenton, Janet Marambe (Arthur), of Portland and Jody Longo (James), of Portland.

Marie loved gardening, and took a special interest in tending to the various species of ferns that grew on the property in Brownsmead. The extension of this passion translated through the natural talent she had for floral arranging. Marie also loved animals, but cats stole her heart. Marie was an excellent contract bridge player, and earned the title of life master. Her homemade cookies were legendary.

Marie loved her family most of all. The annual Coates and Cowan family reunions brought everyone together to celebrate a heritage of family, friends and faith. Marie's ancestors trace back to the sons and daughters of the American Revolution, who arrived in Oregon on a wagon train via the Oregon Trail.

Marie departed this life on Oct. 31, 2018 at the age of 80. Keeping with her wishes, Marie will be cremated and her remains buried next to her parents. She will be laid to rest at the family plot at Murray Hill Cemetery in Clatskanie, Oregon.

Marie is survived by her husband, Melvin, and her daughters, Judi, Janet and Jody. Marie was one of eight children: Bonnie Leistikio, Leslie DeGandi, Carol Brajcich, Patricia Humphrey, David DeGandi, William DeGandi and Harry DeGandi. All, with the exception of Bonnie, preceded her in death.

She is also survived by her grandchildren, Kenneth Marambe, Sarah Marambe, Cole Johnson, Adam Johnson and Emma Johnson; and great-grandchildren, Riley, Chloe, Kayah and Malia. Marie was also a favorite aunt to a host of nieces and nephews, who will miss her dearly.

A graveside service will be held at Murray Hill Cemetery in Clatskanie, Oregon, at 11 a.m. on Saturday, Nov. 10. A celebration of life ceremony will directly follow at the American Legion Hall in Clatskanie, Oregon.

In lieu of flowers, donations can be made in her name to the Astoria Scandinavian Heritage Association, P.O. Box 34, Astoria, OR, 97103, for the future park that will honor Scandinavian heritage.

Funeral arrangements are being handled by Hughes-Ransom Mortuaries and Crematory in Astoria. Visit the online memorial tribute to sign the guest book, share a favorite memory or upload photos and more at
