

ADHDA elects new board and officers

The Daily Astorian

At the December board meeting, new and continuing directors of the Astoria Downtown Historic District Association (ADHDA) elected the following individuals to office for a term of one year: Derith Andrew, president; Patsy Oser, vice-president; Julie Kovatch, secretary; and Jeremy Towsey-French, treasurer.

Andrew has served as a director on the board of ADHDA for five years, and has also served as treasurer. She resides in Astoria, and is a vice president at Clatsop Community Bank. Oser has also served as a director on the ADHDA board for several years, and is an active community volunteer. She will succeed Andrew as president in January 2020.

Kovatch has served as a director on the ADHDA board for two years, and is the director of communications and marketing for Clatsop Community College. Towsey-French is new to the board, and is the owner of Reveille Ciderworks.

Other directors new to the board include Micha Cameron-Lattek, co-owner of Street 14 Cafe; Daryl Moore, owner of Hazen Hills Software; and Christina Cary, co-owner of Pilot House Distilling.

Continuing board members include Tiffany Butler, owner of Whole Brain Creative; Greg Cross, owner of Northwest Lending Group;

Pete Gimre, owner of Gimre's Shoes; Norma Hernandez, coordinator for the Women, Infants and Children (WIC) program for Clatsop County; and Brett Estes, city manager and ex-officio member of the board.

Members retiring from the board include Brad DePuy of Fort George Brewery and Public House, and Dulcye Taylor, owner of Old Town Framing and president of ADHDA from 2012 to 2018. Both are continuing their service with the association.

For information, go to astoriadowntown.com or attend the organization's general meeting, held monthly at 8:30 a.m. on the first Friday at Baked Alaska Restaurant, No. 1 12th St.
