Resolve to fix your stuff at 2019's first Repair Cafe

ASTORIA — Astoria's next Repair Cafe will be held 6 to 8 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 23, at 1010 Duane St.

Help us jump-start our 2019 goal of keeping 2,000 pounds of repairable stuff out of the local landfill. In 2018 we came close with 1,776 pounds of items repaired and salvaged.

Repair Cafe is a community of volunteers who repair, sew, sharpen and give expert advice on pretty much anything broken, torn, dull or in need of repair. At our monthly event we work on clothing, scissors, knives, household appliances, garden tools or just something that needs glued (no gas engines). Our events are held on the fourth Wednesday of each month: Feb. 27, March 27 and April 24. Join us for repairs or just to watch our volunteers put things back together again.

GED classes open to students 16 and older

ASTORIA — Clatsop Community College's GED orientations will take place at the WorkSource Oregon office in Astoria from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., Friday, Jan. 18. WorkSource Oregon is located at 450 Marine Drive.

This is the first time the college is holding an orientation in an attempt to reach additional populations not previously reached. If you are under 18, bring a parent or guardian.

GED classes are free and take place at various times and locations throughout the week so that you can attend around your work schedule.

GED classes are open to students 16 and older who wish to earn a high school credential. If you are under 18, you must provide a "Release from Compulsory Education" form from your high school before attending classes or taking the GED tests. GED classes are offered in English or Spanish, and the college also offers ESL classes and tutoring for students.

There is no cost to enroll. Study materials are provided. The GED will enable you to pursue further education, improve your employment status or fulfill a personal goal.

For more information, contact the Adult Basic Education office at 503-338-2347 or epurcell@clatsopcc.edu.

Train to be a trucker

ASTORIA — Clatsop Community College is hosting the Tillamook Bay Community College Truck Driving Training Program in Astoria for area residents to have the opportunity to become a CDL Certified Truck Driver. Students in this program can earn a CDL in Astoria in four weeks.

The deadline to apply is Tuesday, Jan. 29, though the class does not start until March 18 and runs through April 12. Students must commit to classes 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, to receive the certification. The four-week training session will consist of one week of classroom training and three weeks of field training on location.

The approximate fee cost for the complete program is $5,000 with partial scholarships available through Tillamook Bay Community College. The application and registration processes are all done through Tillamook Bay Community College.

Contact Suzie Clark at 503-842-8222 ext. 1430 or suzieclark@tillamookbaycc.edu for more information and to apply.
