

AP Photo/David Goldman

Debris from a home litters a yard the day after a tornado blew it off its foundation, lower right, in Beaugard, Ala.

TORNADO TEARS THROUGH ALABAMA TOWN

Associated Press

BEAUREGARD, Ala. — Volunteers helped clear debris-clogged roads and donated money to help pay for the funerals of 23 people killed by a devastating tornado in Alabama, where grieving survivors hunted amid twisted wreckage for keepsakes to help them remember the dead.

The tornado scoured a nearly mile-wide path Sunday roughly 70 miles into neighboring Georgia. Forecasters said more severe weather could strike Alabama and neighboring states over the weekend.

Grant Blankenship/The Macon Telegraph

Residents of Talbotton, Ga., pray together outside a home destroyed by a tornado.

AP Photo/David Goldman

Jessica Taylor prays in front of a cross for Jonathan Bowen, 9, at a makeshift memorial for the victims of a tornado in Beaugard, Ala. 'I have a son his age,' said Taylor. 'I can't imagine that mother's loss.'

Mickey Welsh/Montgomery Advertiser

Volunteers look for valuables among the debris in Beaugard, Ala.

AP Photo/David Goldman

Danny Allen helps recover belongings while sifting through the debris of a friend's home destroyed by a tornado in Beaugard, Ala.