

AP Photo/Kathy Willens

Oregon State guard Aleah Goodman, left, and forward Taya Corosdale, right, try to keep the ball away from Louisville guard Asia Durr in the Sweet Sixteen.

March Madness hits Oregon

The Daily Astorian

College basketball fans in Oregon had many reasons to cheer during March Madness. The University of Oregon women made the Final Four before losing to Baylor, the eventual champion. The Oregon State women made the Sweet Sixteen. And the University of Oregon men made the Sweet Sixteen as well before losing to Virginia, the eventual champion.

AP Photo/John Raoux

Oregon forward Satou Sabally looks to pass as Baylor center Kalani Brown defends in the Final Four.

AP Photo/Timothy D. Easley

Oregon's Payton Pritchard, left, and Francis Okoro, right, defend against Virginia's Mamadi Diakite in the Sweet Sixteen.

AP Photo/Kathy Willens

Oregon State guard Aleah Goodman drives against Louisville guard Asia Durr in the Sweet Sixteen.

AP Photo/Michael Conroy

Oregon's Payton Pritchard drives against Virginia's De'Andre Hunter (12) and Jack Salt (33) in the Sweet Sixteen.