The Coast Pregnancy Clinic recently opened its new location at 279 Sixth St. in Astoria.

Pregnancy center opens in new digs

By EDWARD STRATTON
The Daily Astorian

The Coast Pregnancy Clinic, a Christian pregnancy resource center that sees on average several hundred women a year, has moved to a new location on Sixth Street.

The clinic is part of evangelical crisis pregnancy network Care Net. It offers pregnancy testing and ultrasounds; prenatal classes and supplies; referrals for prenatal care, adoptions, abortions, housing and other support; and counseling. All services are free.

Clients first come into the counseling room to learn about the stages of pregnancy and options such as keeping the baby, adoption or abortion, said Jan Johnson, a spokeswoman for the pregnancy center.

"None of us are hoping that's going to happen, but we don't put any pressure on anybody at all," Johnson said of abortions. "All we do is say, 'Well; do you understand what happens when you do that?' And even if you decide to do that we're here to support you afterward."

The center was originally located in Ilwaco, Washington, but moved to Astoria to be closer to the majority of its clientele, said Alicia Mathews, a volunteer client advocate. It previously rented a small slot of a storefront on Ninth Street.

Staff said the new location is larger and more discreet. The Sixth Street building was previously a child care center.

Olney store fined by alcohol regulators

The Daily Astorian

The Olney General Store & Olney Saloon has been sanctioned by the Oregon Liquor Control Commission for not verifying the age of a person attempting to buy alcohol.

The store will pay either a $1,815 civil penalty or serve a 11-day suspension. Businesses serving alcohol are required to verify the age of someone who reasonably appears to be under 26 years old. The licensee is Olney General, Inc., run by Shawron and Dale Searls.

Washington set to allow human composting

Associated Press

OLYMPIA, Wash. — Washington is set to become the first state to allow a burial alternative known as "natural organic reduction" — an accelerated process of decomposition that turns a body into soil in a matter of weeks.

The bill legalizing

the process, sometimes referred to as human composting, has passed the Legislature and is headed to the desk of Gov. Jay Inslee.

The measure's sponsor, Democratic state Sen. Jamie Pedersen, of Seattle, said that a low environmental impact way to dispose of remains makes sense, especially in crowded urban areas.

His measure also authorizes the use of alkaline hydrolysis — already used in 19 other states — which uses heat, pressure, water and chemicals like lye to reduce remains.

If signed by Inslee, the new law would take effect May 1, 2020.

OBITUARIES

Donna Ramona Adamson

Jewell

Jan. 17, 1932 — Feb. 23, 2019

Donna Ramona Adamson, 87, of Jewell, Oregon, went home to be with her Lord and husband, on Feb. 23, 2019.

Donna was born on Jan. 17, 1932, in Portland, Oregon. She was the second oldest child born to George and Lillian (Kadolph) Keene. Her family moved to Forest Grove, then to Dilley, when she was a young girl. In 1950, she graduated from Forest Grove High School. Donna then attended and graduated in 1954 from the Good Samaritan School of Nursing in Portland, Oregon.

She started dating Bernard Adamson in 1948. On July 24, 1954, they were married in Gaston, Oregon. They spent a short time in Maine after marrying while Bernard finished his time in the Air Force. After 56 years of marriage, Bernard passed away in 2011.

In 1973, Bernard and Donna settled in Jewell, Oregon, after spending previous years in Marcola, Alsea and Powers. They had five children between 1957 and 1968. Donna enjoyed knitting and sewing clothes for her children.

Donna started working as a registered nurse at the old St. Mary's Hospital in Astoria, Oregon, in 1974. She moved over to the newly built Columbia Memorial Hospital in 1977, and worked there until her retirement in 1997. The majority of her career she worked the night shift and was a nursing supervisor. Her last two years were spent working the day shift in social services.

After retiring, Donna spent many days enjoying her grandchildren and great-grandchildren. Bernard and Donna traveled in their motor home to Alaska in 2001. They also took trips to Hawaii and Mexico. She kept busy supervising her husband while he tended to his large garden, and making sure her hummingbirds had enough food.

Her family would say her favorite hobbies were reading, doing crossword puzzles, enjoying TV shows and napping. She could also make the best lemon meringue pie around. Donna and Bernard were members of the Nehalem Valley Community Church for all of their years living in Jewell, Oregon. She often played the piano with her good friend, Lorene Rodgers.

She was preceded in death by her husband, Bernard; parents, George and Lillian; in-laws, Vernon and Belva; three siblings, Lillian Mae, Dick and Bob; brother-in-law, Paul Adamson; and sisters-in-law, Juanita Adamson and Georgann Adamson.

She is survived by her children, Beth (Tom) Cunningham, of Coos Bay, Steven (Jan Brattain) Adamson, of Birkenfield, Carol (Greg) Engebretson, of Warrenton, Lynda (David) Leiferman, of Jewell, and Lori (Ed) Karl, of Warrenton; 10 grandchildren; 22 great-grandchildren; brothers-in-law, Wayne Ooley, of Forest Grove, and Richard Adamson, of Gaston; sister-in-law, Donna Keene, of Cornelius; and numerous nieces and nephews.

A service will be held Saturday, May 4 at 12 p.m. at the Nehalem Valley Community Church in Jewell, Oregon. Reception to follow.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Nehalem Valley Community Church or the American Stroke Association.
