

Photos by Colin Murphey/The Astorian

A member of the Coast Guard is moved out of the surf.

WATER RESCUE TRAINING IN SEAVIEW

By COLIN MURPHEY
The Astorian

People hanging out at the beach near Seaview, Washington, were treated to an impromptu demonstration this week of a water rescue training operation. The Coast Guard joined Pacific County emergency responders to practice how to save lives. Mock victims were plucked from the water by jet ski, transported to the beach and moved to waiting ambulances.

A Coast Guard mock victim waits to be moved into an ambulance.

First responders practice a water rescue scenario on the beach near Seaview.

A Coast Guard vessel sits offshore as emergency responders practice a rescue drill in Seaview.