A variety of top-tier musicians from the Portland area will be making their way to the coast this weekend to kick off the 10-day Fire Mountain Musicfest, which features performances through Oct. 13 at venues in Cannon Beach, Manzanita and Nehalem.

"We're always looking for opportunities to play and make more of a music scene out here," said longtime musician and producer Dean Mueller, one of the event organizers.

The inaugural Fire Mountain Musicfest, which pays titular homage to the landmark Neahkahnie Mountain, is a joint project between the Cannon Beach Arts Association and
