The Season of Giving

As we approach the Season of Giving, Kid Scoop celebrates young people who make a difference all year long.

When Mackenzie Bearup was 14 years old, she had a disease that forced her to stay in bed. To keep her mind off her pain, she read a lot. And the books started to pile up.

Mackenzie learned about a home for abused children that wanted to start a library. She gathered up her books and asked her friends for book donations.

She gave the home enough books to fill their library. She reached out to other homeless shelters to see if they could use donated books. Today, she and her organization have collected over 55,000 books!

Use the code to find out the name of Mackenzie's organization:

Donating Books and Helping the Planet at read.repeat.

When Chase Hartman was 10 and Vance Tomasi was 11, they started the organization called read.repeat. to get books in the hands of those who needed them.

"We learned that kids who own books do better in school," remembered Vance.

Since starting their organization, the boys have collected 110,000 books and distributed them to 200 locations in all 50 states.

Speaking Up About Bullying Leads to Friendship and a Book

Jemalle Williams was 11 years old when he saw a classmate named Carter being made fun of by other students because he was chewing on his pencil a lot. At first, Jemalle thought he would just ignore the kids doing the bullying. But after a while, he thought, "I should do something."

"He was like the smallest kid in the class which made him an easy target," said Jemalle. "I thought long and hard on what to do to get them to stop without drawing attention to my own weirdness. It finally came to me, I had a lightbulb moment."

What did he do? He started chewing on his own pencil.

Then the kids started making fun of him instead of Carter. Jemalle said, "It didn't really phase me because I knew I had done a good thing."

Carter appreciated Jemalle's help and the two of them became friends.

Jemalle went on to write a book called Different yet Alike based on his experience. He illustrated the book himself and made copies to sell. He raised $160 which he donated to his school to help with bullying education.

You can read Jemalle's book at the website differentyetalike.com
