

THANKSGIVING THEN AND NOW

Making a mushroom stuffing

BY DAVID CAMPICHE

Thanksgiving around our home was a big deal. Mom was a fine cook. She owned and ran a bookstore in Long Beach and boasted the finest selection of cookbooks in the Columbia-Pacific region. Cookbooks followed her

See Page 14

His dramatic coloring and plumage make this Royal Palm Turkey the center of attention at Stockhouse Farm on Puget Island, not to mention the ubiquitous gobble, gobble gobble!

Photos by Laurie Anderson

It's hard to resist a roasted turkey fresh from the oven. For many, Thanksgiving isn't complete without one.