

Astoria art group accepting residency applications

ASTORIA — Astoria Visual Arts is accepting applicants for its summer residency program.

Chosen artists will work between May 4 and Aug. 31 in one of the organization's rent-free studios, located at 1000 Duane St.

The deadline to apply is Sunday, April 19. Applications are available at the organization's website, astoriavisualarts.org.

Chosen applicants will be notified by April 27. Finalists are chosen by a panel of working artists and art patrons. Previous applicants are encouraged to reapply with an updated portfolio.

Before the residency begins, the studios will be disinfected. Visitors won't be allowed for the duration of the coronavirus pandemic.

Artists invited to contribute to online gallery

MANZANITA — The Hoffman Center for the Arts is requesting artist submissions for an online gallery.

The gallery will be themed, "Creating in Place: Connecting in a Time of Uncertainty," and will feature local artists' creations online.

Local artists are encouraged to submit pieces of any medium, such as paintings, photographs, poems, stories, photographs of three-dimensional creations, videos of dances and videos of music. Creations should reflect how the artist's life has been impacted by coronavirus.

Pieces will not be for sale. Submissions can be uploaded online anytime at hoffmanarts.org under the website's "submissions" section, which also has submission guidelines.

The gallery will be updated online regularly.
