

Lecture tackles communicating during the coronavirus pandemic

Ales & Ideas will be online

ASTORIA — Clatsop Community College's monthly Ales and Ideas lecture will be held virtually at 7 p.m. Thursday at clatsopcc.zoom.us/j/92568436139.

Two of the college's instructors, Nancy Cook and Deac Guidi, will present "Communication in the Time of Corona." The pair will talk about the coronavirus' impacts on oral and written communication in classrooms, homes and communities around the world.

Cook and Guidi's talk will include a multimedia slide presentation.

Talks are typically hosted at Fort George Brewery's Lovell Taproom. Food and drinks from Fort George will be available for pick-up by ordering online at fortgeorgetogo.com. Orders for same-day pickup must be placed before 1 p.m.

To view the talk, go to the above link anytime between 6:40 and 7 p.m. on Thursday. Users may be asked to create an account through Zoom, which is free.

Liberty Theatre hosts virtual movies

ASTORIA — The Liberty Theatre is hosting virtual movie screenings of classic films.

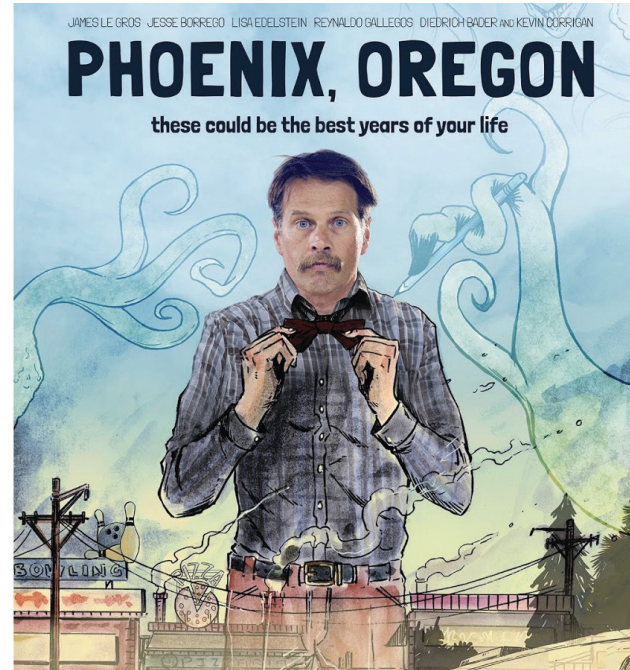

The films can be watched online by purchasing a ticket through libertyastoria.org for each film. Film purchases benefit the theater.

The theater's initial film options include "The Booksellers," "Bacurau," "Zombi Child," "The Estruscan Smile," and "Once Were Brothers." Other films are expected to be available in May.

The movies are available through a partnership between movie studios, distributors, theaters and filmmakers.

Streaming of Oregon film to support restaurants

The Oregon-made film 'Phoenix, Oregon' will be shown virtually Friday through Tuesday.

The Oregon-made film "Phoenix, Oregon" will be streamed at 5 p.m. Saturday as a fundraiser for Oregon's restaurants.

The event is hosted by the Oregon Hospitality Foundation and Theatrical-At-Home. Tickets to view the movie cost $6.50. All proceeds will be donated to Oregon restaurants.

The film tells the story of two friends who quit their jobs to restore an abandoned bowling alley and serve pizza. After the streaming, the movie's cast and crew will participate in a live question and answer session at 7 p.m.

The event will be available to watch between May 8-12. To purchase a ticket, visit bit.ly/2WsXm9t.
