

STAYING SAFE, HAVING FUN

North Coast residents share photos of activities for Coast Weekend contest

BY ALYSSA EVANS

Residents throughout the North Coast are staying safe and busy at home through a variety of activities.

For Coast Weekend's quarantine photo activity contest, we asked readers to send in a photo of an activity they've done at home during Oregon and Washington state's stay at home orders.

The results are fun, quirky and show the spirit of our small coastal towns. Some residents are quilting for family members, others are spending time with children and grandchildren and the rest are honing their skills at projects.

See Page 15 Julia Triezenberg has been playing ukulele and caring for her plants.

Jano Bono's cat, 'Theo,' enjoys his sixth birthday.

Lois Larson has been quilting stockings for her future grandchildren.
