

Tree tour

the best our evergreen coastline has to offer

Words & Images: Lynette Rae McAdams

There's a feeling that comes of hanging out with old trees — something innate in each of us that awakens in the presence of such enormous, peaceful beauty. That they have stood for so long and witnessed so much that is awe inspiring to be sure but also somehow softly comforting. Big trees always feel ancestral.

Whether you're simply driving by, out for an easy stroll, or dedicated to putting in a little effort, this collection of favorites is sure to transform — leaving you suddenly, quietly, changed for the better.
