

Coast Weekend Road Trip

reader photos

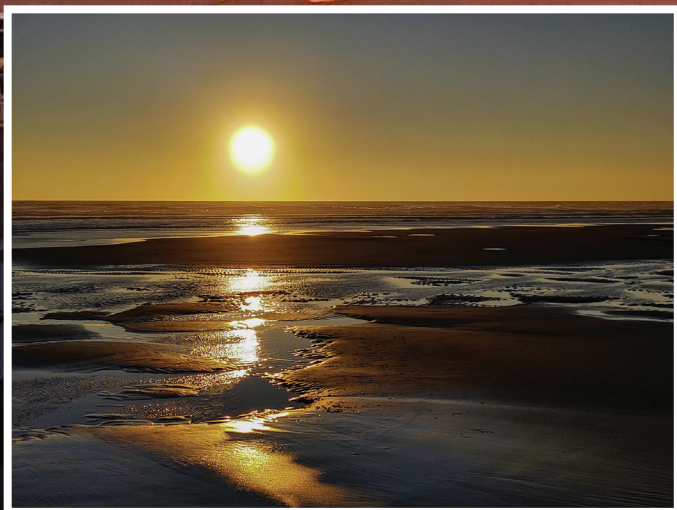

BY ALYSSA EVANS

The end of Coast Weekend's summer road trip series is here.

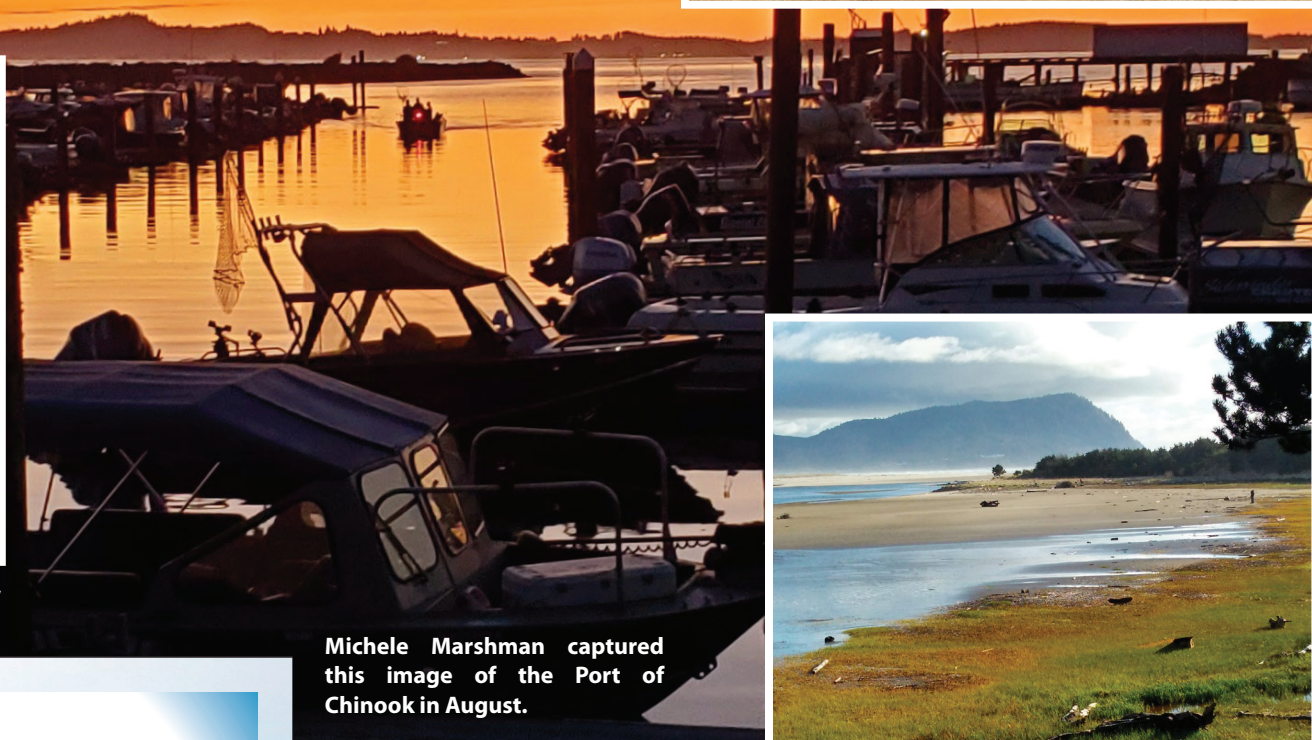

Over the last four months, we visited about a dozen of the North Coast's unique towns. To start, we trekked down to Jewell and Olney, then eventually went north where we finished the series in Ocean Park, Washington.

Along the way, some readers have gone for their own variations of the road trips. Here are some photos to commemorate the series, all sent in by readers.

Dale Presler visited the Lewis and Clark Discovery Trail in Long Beach, Washington.

Jeff Middaugh took this image of a sunset around Ocean Park, Washington.

Michele Marshman captured this image of the Port of Chinook in August.

Lois Barnum, of Hammond, regularly visits the Necanicum Estuary.

Richard McIntosh visited Boiler Bay, where he took this image.
