Clean up the beach in costume at Oswald West State Park

An Oregon State Parks cleanup and costume event will be held Saturday in Oswald West State Park.

The event is led by Friends of Cape Falcon Marine Reserve, Surfrider Foundation's Portland chapter and Trailkeepers of Oregon.

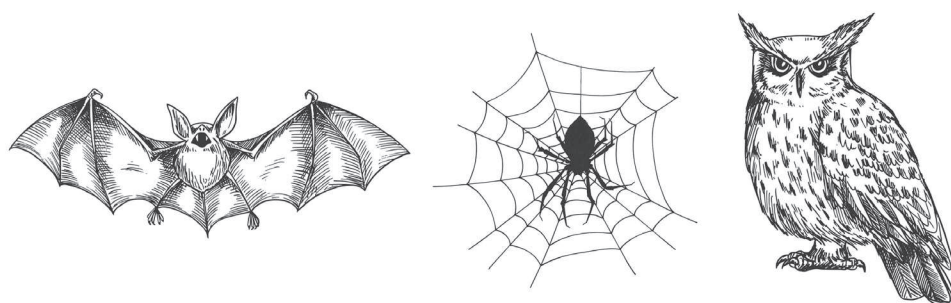

Two activities will take place between noon and 2 p.m. including trail maintenance (12 people maximum) and a beach cleanup (50 people maximum).

Guests are asked to bring a bucket or bag, gloves, clothes you don't mind getting dirty and a mask. Participants should arrive 15 to 20 minutes early to check in at the parking lot.

The hosts encourage participants to show their holiday spirit and dress up.

There will be a costume contest with prizes from Surfrider's Portland chapter.

Fort Clatsop hosts event about creatures of the night Saturday

ASTORIA — Lewis and Clark National Historical Park will hold a "Bats, Spiders, Owls – Oh My!" event Saturday from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Rangers will be stationed at the Fort Clatsop replica presenting information and telling stories about three creatures of the night: bats, spiders and owls.

The hosts remind guests to dress for the weather. Night creature craft bags will be available to pick up from the Fort Clatsop Visitor Center.

The park is open daily 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Admission is $10 per adult and free for youth 15 years old and under.
