needed, at Luminari Arts.

Then, following Duane to the corner of 12th, Tami Klockau's hand-dyed yarns are sure to dazzle at Candy Skein. Next door, heading toward the Liberty Theatre, newcomer to town, B  b   Lew, has everything adorable for little ones, from tiny sunglasses and shoes and clothing, to toys and books.

Left, then, crossing onto Commercial at the theater, Oscar de' Masi Art Studio/Gallery is next to Pat's Pantry, a go-to must for spices and teas.

Crossing Commercial at 11th, cruise down 11th to Imogen Gallery (soon to be expanded in Cargo's former space) and then cross over Marine Drive and up a half a block to Astoria Vintage Hardware's warehouse full of architectural salvaged gems and reimagined home furnishings.

Head back down Marine Drive to explore Rusty Dahlia's tasty home d  cor, Chalk Paint, lotions, soaps, baby furnishings, and kitchen must-haves, including shelves of Fiesta ware.

Back to the corner of 11th and Marine Drive, you can't miss Cargo, expanded, and as fun as ever, crammed full of new and vintage curiosities from around the globe.

By now you may need to rest a bit, so Astoria Coffeehouse & Bistro can oblige with a well-needed latte or cardamom hot chocolate. Add an almond or chocolate croissant for energy?

Refreshed and ready to continue, hit the shops on Commercial with quality Nordic glass, porcelain, kitchenware, linens, and clothing at Finn Ware, followed by Forsythea featuring local artisans (don't miss the children's section in back — fanciful hats, too!).

Next up, A Gypsy's Whimsy Herbal Apothecary, where owner and clinical herbalist, Vicki McAfee, offers advice, herbal supplements, and has her shelves brimming with hand-made items from India, Nepal and Turkey. A few steps away, RiverSea Gallery showcases local and regional
