

Food Access

Astoria Sunday Market works to support food access for all visitors and community members alike. The market creates a unique opportunity for you to meet your local farmers and learn all about their farms and the food you are bringing home. Ask your farmers about their products and what it takes to grow them. They'd love to share!

We accept SNAP/EBT/DUFB/FDNP/WIC

We accept SNAP/EBT and we are so excited to announce that this year we will be distributing Double-Up Food Bucks to all SNAP customers. Double-Up Food Bucks automatically includes an extra $1 for every SNAP dollar spent, up to $20! Many of our farmers also accept Farm Direct Nutrition Program (FDNP) and WIC checks!

Learn more about these food access programs at the market's info booth.

Farm/Food Incubator Program

This year we are launching our brand new Food and Farm Incubation program! This program hosts a booth for new farm and food producers to sell their products and learn all about how to run a successful market booth.

ASM, with support from Columbia Pacific Economic Development District and North Coast Food Web, is working with these producers to decrease barriers for bringing farm and food products to the market. In turn, more produce and food will be available directly for you!

Other North Coast Markets and Food Programs

Seaside Farmer's Market

The Seaside Farmers Market accepts EBT with a SNAP Match up to $10 and we'll be matching up to $20 in Double Up Food Bucks. The programs are combined, so you can potentially swipe $20 on your card and get a total of $50 to spend on fresh produce and food at the market. Our farmers also accept Farm Direct Nutrition Program checks. We'll have live music, a food court, and around 40 vendors each week. Check our website for the music lineup and a list of vendors.
