

THIS WEEKEND'S OUR PICKS SEPT. 8, 2022

A full moon illuminates a patch of clouds behind the Astoria Column.

Hike with the full moon, Astoria

Celebrate the Harvest Moon with a late-night hike at Sunset Beach, hosted by Angora Hiking Club, or venture out to a favorite viewpoint to catch the moon rise.

A 1964 Chrysler New Yorker, seen at a previous Rod Run to the End of the World.

See a car show, Ocean Park

Adventures abound all summer long for classic car enthusiasts venturing to the coast. This week, head up to the Long Beach Peninsula to find the Rod Run to the End of the World, featuring acres of cars of all types and historic eras.

A variety of stickers and other collectibles are available throughout shops along the coast.

Look for coastal stickers, Seaside

Stroll around shops in Seaside and Cannon Beach to search of fun stickers to commemorate the North Coast, including scenes by local artists and designers.

Building a driftwood fort is fun, a decent workout, a useful lesson in geometry and engineering and typically doesn't cost a cent.

Build a driftwood fort, Manzanita

Gather materials and be the architect of a unique spot to relax on the shore. Check local regulations to see if driftwood forts are permitted.
