BRAGG MERCANTILE COMPANY

EGGLES FEARS NOT TIMBER FRAUD PROBE

Voluntarily coming to Portland to appear before the federal grand jury William H. Eccles, manager for the Oregon Lumber Company at Hood River, and a director in the affairs of the Sumpter Valley Railroad Company, which maintains its headquarters at Baker City, was in consultation with Grant Geddes at the Hotel Oregon very soon after his arrival Saturday, says the Oregonian.

"I have been in the east for some time, and started home as soon as information was sent that the United States district attorney had begun an inquiry into the methods by which our company has acquired timber lands," said Mr. Eccles. "My train was delayed somewhat by the troubles with which the railroads have recently been afflicted, but here I am, and ready to go before the grand jury at any time, and I will tell all I know."

"I have had no opportunity to scan the situation, but I wish the Oregonian would make it plain that so far as the Oregon Lumber Company, David Eccles of Salt Lake City, its president, or myself are concerned we have no fear of being charged with conspiracy or having any difficulty in clearing our skirts of any charge of that nature. The Sumpter Valley Railroad Company, running from Baker City to Austin and Dixie cannot be charged with having acquired lands illegally, because that company owns no land aside from its right of way."

"The Oregon Lumber Company has purchased a large quantity of land as it was offered by persons who had located and secured title. I am not aware that the company ever induced any 'dummy' to make an entry in its behalf, or that it ever advanced money by which the expense of such entries should be paid under any sort of a contract."

"It will also be made clear that the Mormon church has never in any manner assisted in colonizing timber lands in our interest. It is not true that Mormons from Utah or any other state were brought into Oregon for the purpose of taking up timber land so that the Oregon Lumber Company might buy it. Perhaps not more than one-eighth of the lands we purchased were secured from Mormons. Among the witnesses who have been brought to Portland not to exceed one-fourth of the total number are members of the Mormon church."

"I have not seen my brother, David Eccles, since he was here attending the convention of lumbermen a few weeks ago, and I do not know whether he intends to appear before the grand jury or not. I will remain here until this thing is over."
