CHILDREN'S MASQUERADE PICTURESQUE AFFAIR

A picturesque and pleasing entertainment for the little folks was given by their parents last Friday evening when they were tendered a masquerade party at the opera house. The patronesses for the occasion were Mrs. W. J. Baker, Mrs. H. M. Huxley and Mrs. J. W. Ingalls. The excellent music was furnished by Mrs. Del Rand.

At eight o'clock the merry little maskers assembled, watched by their parents and many admiring friends, and opened the affair with a grand march. The costumes were varied as well as handsome, unique and grotesque. Little misses essayed the part of grand dames, dressed in long flowing garments. Spanish dancers, Dutch girls and many other feminine characters pranced, while the queen of hearts offered a liberal supply of tarts to her subjects. The boys were no less original in their selection of costumes, and whirled among the throng as knights, clowns, sailors, robber chiefs and in numerous other fanciful dress. Prizes offered by E. A. Franz for the best costumes were awarded to Miss Wilma Thompson, representing a daisy, and Allan Button, as Robinhood, by the judges, Mrs. H. F. Davidson, Mrs. Price and D. E. Rand. The dances executed were very pretty. Later refreshments were served and the very enjoyable evening for the little folks brought to a close.
