FAKE SLEUTHS WORK NEAR BEER JOINTS

Representing themselves to be officers of the law, Benjamin Overdorf and Arthur Barrett arrested Jack Monroe and a man named Conroy, proprietors of near-beer joints in the vicinity of Sherar's Bridge, Tuesday, and then "touched" Monroe and Conover for $50 a piece. They were arrested and are in jail, according to The Dalles Chronicle.
 Barrett visited Marshal Frazier at Dufur telling him that he was a state officer and that there was a $2,000 reward offered for the arrest of Jack Monroe who, he said, was wanted in Portland for larceny. He asked for a warrant for Monroe and obtained the same. He then requested that Overdorf be appointed as a deputy constable to assist him in taking his man into custody. This request was granted and then the men "worked" Mr. Frazier for a revolver and a pair of handcuffs. Proceeding to Monroe's place, the would-be officers told him they had a warrant for his arrest on the charge of larceny, saying that he was wanted for committing the crime in Portland three weeks ago and the handcuffs were placed on him. Monroe told the "officers" that he had not been in Portland in three months. "Well, maybe we are mistaken," said one of them, "but you have been selling liquor illegally and we will take you on that charge."
 The near-beer dispenser asked what it would take to settle the case and was informed that the matter would be dropped if he gave them $50, which he did. They then went to Conroy's place and told him that he had been breaking the law at his joint. Conroy told them that he had given a bottle of whiskey to a freighter. The men said that under the law he was as guilty as though he had sold the liquor and that they would place him under arrest unless he "came through." He paid them $50.
 Marshal Frazier learned of the affair and telephoned to District Attorney Fred W. Wilson, telling him of the case. Overdorf, in some manner, learned that the officials knew of the affair and being in The Dalles went to Mr. Wilson and told him that he had nothing to do with the "frame-up," that he supposed Barrett was a state official and that he had been "roped in." Sheriff Chrisman arrived on the scene at the time and after the officials questioned him at length they were positive he was guilty and placed him under arrest. Officer Jack Monabbs located Barrett in a resort a short time afterwards and he and Deputy Sheriff Allen arrested him.
 It is believed that the men undoubtedly thought that the proprietors of the near-beer joints would be afraid to tell the officers of the affair, fearing that they might get into trouble.
 The prisoners claim that they are innocent of any wrong-doing. Barrett told Sheriff Chrisman that he allowed Monroe to go free with a fine of $50 because he felt sorry for Monroe's wife who, he said, was sitting in the saloon crying after the proprietor was "arrested." Monroe has no wife. Barrett, when asked to account for the fines which he and Overdorf collected, said that he bought a suit of clothes, a suitcase and considerable clothing at Dufur and that he left the same there.

White Stockings Tabooed
 In a city in Indiana (and which, by the way, was until a few years ago, the home of the present editor of the Dispatch) the mayor and council have ordered that no meats or groceries, or in fact, any merchandise of any kind, be delivered on Sunday and are considering the advisability of stopping the delivery of Sunday papers. And since the order was made the mayor has ordered that no person of either sex shall wear white hose upon the streets of the city. Isn't that reform for you? We suppose this reform (?) mayor will ere long have the police see that everyone attends church on Sunday and that they keep awake during the services. Perhaps he will go a step further and order that all scolding women be treated to an acquaintance with the ducking stool. Also he may cause a whipping post and pillory to be erected. And again, he may cause a gibbet to be erected on which to hang all who may or may not be affected with witchcraft. No telling how far he may go in his efforts to create a "model" city.—Dufur Dispatch.

Water Works on the Farm

Yes, that's just what we mean—real water works; running water in the kitchen, the bathroom, the laundry, the barn—in fact, all over the place. And it's all done by that tank you see in the lower left hand corner of this picture—the Leader System. It's vastly different from the old-fashioned elevated tank which worked by gravity. For the Leader Water Supply System is operated by compressed air—reliable, safe and clean. Your windmill pumps water into the tank (which is already full of air). The air, being elastic, is compressed into upper part of the tank, and forces the water out through the pipes.
 This gives you a pressure, so that a powerful stream of water is on tap at every faucet, no matter where it is located. And this means absolute fire-protection, for the pressure is always on and always ready.
 Now, the old style gravity tanks were either put in the attic or situated on a high tower out of doors.
 In the former case, their weight when full, cracked the plastering; or they overflowed or leaked, flooding the rooms below.
 In the case of the outside tanks, the water often froze solid in winter, necessitating expensive plumbing bills; or it became hot and stagnant during the summer and unfit for use. The avoids all this, because the air-tight tank is either in the basement or buried underground below the frost line. Every outfit is complete, with full directions, and is easily installed. The Leader System needs no repairs, is suited to small buildings or large, and is moderate in price.

Leader Water Supply System
 Let us send you our free booklet, "How I Solved the Water Supply Problem," the story of a man who successfully equipped his country home with modern water works.
