ASKS AID TO PREVENT FOREST FIRE DAMAGE

"Although July has hardly begun, a dry spring followed by hot weather has resulted in terrific forest fires throughout the coast states. The tinder-like condition of the woods so early in the season threatens us with one of the worst fire years in history. With the situation already extremely serious, and the usually dry months still to come, the Pacific Northwest faces great danger of uncontrollable sweeping fires, before which all effort will be powerless to prevent great destruction of resources if not of human lives. It is a time to appeal to every citizen for vigilance to avert disaster and distress to the community."

In these words the Western Forestry & Conservation Association begins a statement issued today as the result of reports upon the unusually critical forest fire situation received from its subsidiary fire fighting organizations throughout the North-western states. All authorities agree that the unusually early arrival of dangerous conditions warrants grave apprehension. Great destruction has already resulted in Montana, Idaho and California. In Oregon and Washington many fires have broken out and, although most have been successfully handled, every day is increasing the danger of conditions which prevent control.

The association calls attention to the fact that very destructive forest fires come in cycles, due to abnormal years. While in ordinary seasons countless fires smoulder without serious effect and even the more important ones can usually be checked by sufficient effort, every few years comes a combination of protracted dry weather and wind during which any fire once started becomes almost instantaneously beyond influence of human endeavor. Such fires burn furiously until checked by rain or lack of fuel and sweep vast areas with great rapidity. The last of these "fire years" was 1902, when many lives, besides resources worth nearly $80,000,000, were destroyed in Oregon and Washington in a day or two. It is a return of such a catastrophe which is feared if heavy rain does not soon relieve the early dryness of 1910.

In the meanwhile the association appeals to every traveler and resident in forest regions to exercise the greatest precaution with fire, and to all timber owners to maintain vigilant patrol. In some states the governor has legal power to forbid hunting, fishing and camping during period of great fire danger, but in the Northwest there is no insurance but the care exercised by the individual.

PINE GROVE

The Ladies' Aid will hold its business session at the home of Mrs. E. E. Lage Friday afternoon of this week.

Rev. Hayes occupied the pulpit at Odell last Sunday morning.

Miss Lizzie Paasch is home from Portland for a vacation.

Miss Ada Mark joined a party of young people from Hood River Friday in an outing trip to Lost Lake.

W. Fike and wife are entertaining company from Portland this week.

Miss Johnson of Portland is a guest of Mrs. Heury Lage.

Mrs. O'Connell, with her daughter Gladys, returned to her home in Portland Monday after a few days' visit with her sister, Mrs. J. L. Davis.

Dr. Brown of North Dakota, joint partner in the firm of Lewis & Brown, visited his parents and sisters last week and looked over his new possessions.

Mrs. Burton and daughter from Peoria, Ill., Mrs. King Benton's mother and sister, arrived last week for an extended visit.

James Malloy and family left for Oregon City Monday, where they will make their future home.

Mr. Barlow, with his niece, Miss Hunkins, from South Dakota, visited W. H. Brown's people last week.

Mrs. Amanda Sears and Mrs. Gladys Brock were very successful in capturing a large quantity of blackberries on their trip to Washington a few days ago.

The social held at the parsonage Saturday evening under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. included a large and pleasant gathering and many thanks to those who so kindly assisted in entertaining. Rev. Hayes, our pastor, proved a royal host.

MOSIER

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Stark have moved to Hood River to spend the winter.

The Misses Knowles and Jessie Blair of Sedalia, Mo., left the first of the week for California to continue their visit. They spent a few weeks in Mosier visiting their uncle and aunt. Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Middle-swart.

George Wald, after spending more than a year in Alaska, has returned to Mosier and is visiting at the home of Fred Evans.

Mrs. Stogsdale of Portland came up Saturday to visit with her sister, Mrs. Wm. Davis.

Mrs. J. N. Mosler arrived Saturday evening from Portland to visit with her husband a few weeks.

Rev. C. F. Swanders arrived Saturday evening and will hold a series of meetings in the Christian church.

On Thursday Mrs. Akers entertained a number of the Mosler pioneers in honor of her mother, Mrs. Stark. There were about a dozen present and all enjoyed talking over the past and looking forward to a greater future, but not any better "good times" than in the days gone by.

Friday afternoon Bobby and Betty Ross entertained a large number of their friends on the lawn, games were played and after a dainty lunch was served in the darkened dining room made light by numerous tiny candles, all departed declaring they had had the best time.

Mr. and Mrs. Amos Root left Monday for Collins to camp for a month.

Mrs. R. M. Ross and children left Monday for Newport to spend the summer at the beach.

Mrs. Huskey and son Russ moved to town during the week and are living in their neat cottage recently remodeled.

PAINTING OF VALLEY WILL BE MASTERPIECE

The original oil painting of Hood River valley which will be executed by Gibson Catlett, the Los Angeles artist, who was here last week has been bought by the Hood River Realty Company, at a cost of $500. Mr. Catlett who has recently completed one of these large canvases of the Rogue River valley and the cities of Portland and Seattle says that the Hood River painting will be the finest ever produced. One of the reasons for this he says is that Hood River is the finest subject that he has yet secured and that he expects it to surpass anything that he will do on the coast. After a trip over the valley he was more enthusiastic about its artistic possibilities and scenery than the most ardent Hood Riverite and has since been able to think of nothing else.

In a recent letter to the Realty company he says:

"Portland, Oregon, July 12, 1910.—Hood River Realty Company, Hood River, Oregon. Gentlemen: Replying to your favor of 11th inst. as regards the price of duplicate drawings of the $500 painting that I am to make for you of the Hood River valley and the Columbia River gorge to Portland, beg to say that I can produce these duplicates at exactly one-half the price of the original painting, or $250 each.

The original and all duplicates will be 3 1/2 feet high by 9 feet wide, and now that I have made preliminary sketches I can say to you that this will be the greatest painting of the kind ever produced anywhere.

"My duplicate paintings are invariably a little better than the original, this is due to the practice in handling the colors.

"If in the duplicate paintings you may desire to emphasize certain pieces of property, I will gladly do so, free of additional cost.

I am tied down to this office for a few days, but will be with you in the very near future. Yours truly,

"GIBSON CATLETT."

It is stated by Mr. Catlett that almost every piece of acreage in the valley will be shown in the painting and that it will be so focussed to show the upper as well as the lower valley. Mt. Hood, Cloud Cap Inn, the rivers, railroad and all points of interest will also be depicted. The painting will be copyrighted which will protect it from being copied or photographed except by permission of the Realty company.

Congregational Church Meeting

A meeting of the members of the Congregational church which was held Sunday to consider calling Rev. D. V. Poling of The Dalles to become the new pastor of the church decided not to do so for the present. Rev. Mr. Gilmore, the present pastor of the church, has accepted a call to Dayton, Wash., and leaves for his new pastoral field in September. In securing a new pastor the church members are also considering a plan to build a larger church and broaden the field of its work. It is expected that another meeting will be called in the near future when the matter will probably be taken up again.

Henry Hickox Loses Son

Marvel Hickox, aged about six years, son of Henry Hickox the night marshal, died at the home of his parents here Sunday from a serious attack of measles. The funeral was held Monday at the home at 2 o'clock the services being conducted by Rev. W. C. Gilmore. Interment was in Idlewild cemetery.
