LEAGUE CONVENTION AS DELEGATE SEES IT

Friday, June 10th, was given over to the entertainment of league delegates, which was a "gala day" from start to finish, the program for the day being carried out, with a few exceptions on account of the weather. The street car ride along the principal streets of St. Louis was an unique affair. State delegations were placed together, so that members of the same state had a better opportunity to get acquainted. The procession was said to be two miles in length, and each car was labeled "American Woman's League." Headed by a first-class band, they started out. In fact, I never saw a happier or more enthusiastic set of folk anywhere than those enjoying this "Seeing St. Louis." Many business houses were decorated with purple and white, the league colors, and as the cars passed along and the delegates caught sight of the colors, cheer after cheer echoed and re-echoed, with rally cry and song accompaniment. The delegates saw St. Louis and St. Louis saw the delegates. After the return to headquarters in the Woman's Magazine building, a surprise was in store for us in the form of a dainty luncheon prepared and served by the employees of the league and those of the Lewis Publishing Company.

Did you ever see seven thousand women sit down at a picnic? It was a scene to be remembered. Every nook and corner of the Magazine and League buildings, as well as the press rooms below, was occupied by the same jolly crowd.

Later the employees presented a procession of allegorical groups and floats—paintings, textiles, ceramics, pottery, metals and sculpture.

The delights of Delmar Garden and beautiful fire works in the evening, closed the day.

Saturday, the last day of the convention, was bright and beautiful. There was not a cloud in the blue sky, a symbol of the outcome of the last business session and its inspiring scenes. The delegates were prompt and the proceedings were pushed through in a business manner. The work of closing the Founder's Chapter was declared completed when each delegate pledged herself to immediately secure one or more members. Enthusiasm was at its height when Mr. E. G. Lewis was unanimously nominated and elected first president of the American Woman's League and also president of the Founder's Chapter, although he offered to retire.

Before the entire business program was completed, Ex-Governor Folk of Missouri was introduced and made a splendid speech. His tribute to the women and the work they are doing through the league, showed his appreciation of the great work it has on hand.

The convention closed in a wave of sentiment such as has never been known in a great gathering. The spirit of helpfulness and a kindly feeling pervaded all hearts, and when the grand cordon and cordon were presented the first and second prizes for the best work done for the American Woman's League during the past year, Mrs. Amelia B. Gunton was called as the one who secured the first prize, and Mrs. Clara D. Ashton as the winner of the second prize. Great was their amazement, as they were not aware of the fact of winning the prize. More amazed, however, were they over the fact of their being sisters who had lost track of each other for many years, one living in Boston and the other in Los Angeles, and now being brought face to face. This was only one of the pleasant scenes enacted on that day.

The following are a few of the results of the first annual convention:

1. The league is changed from a department of the Lewis Publishing Company to a separate, independent organization with its own offices and income.
2. The Class "A" publishers decide to depend on the league for subscription work and not to offer premiums or conduct prize contests in the future.
3. The league adopts a permanent plan, setting forth its objects and providing for its government and for the government of its local chapters.

My impression after seeing the great buildings, their force of employees and teachers of highest rank from Europe and America, as well as the immense diversity of pure literature, is that the American Woman's League is the greatest movement of the age, because it brings better opportunity to the home, and a broader conception of human right than the world has ever known. This is the greatest movement, more worth while than anything else with which I ever came in contact. For instance, one member I heard of is the mother of nine children, all under 21 years of age and eligible to any course of study, from the kindergarten to a scientific college course, also a course in art, music, etc.—in fact, over two hundred separate courses without any charge for tuition. A fourteen year old daughter of this family is taking the league's lessons in bookkeeping, and this is the only chance the girl could have had for an education. So you see the league has raised the girl from a cash girl to a bookkeeper, and what it will do for the others is immeasurable.

At the present time there are 20,600 pupils enrolled and the number is growing rapidly. A number of honor students are already in attendance at University City. In addition to the great central university, five independent correspondence schools of high grade are allied with the league and giving their courses of instruction to league members and their minor children without any charge for tuition.

The league's source of income is incalculable. Since the affiliation of the leading publishers of first-class magazines, the largest amount of money received for subscriptions during 1908 for any one week was $8,000; during 1909 for any one week, more than $9,000, a gain of 1,000 per cent. Twenty-three thousand dollars has been received in a day for subscriptions to the associated magazines.

Mr. Lewis is now seeing "his dream" materialized, despite the fierce opposition, and, having stood the test, it has now reached the point where nothing can stop its progress. And it behooves every citizen of Hood River to look into the plan of the league and help to hasten the day when our beautiful Chapter House shall adorn our streets and stand as a monument to the spirit of education of a high grade for the masses, ourselves and our children.

VALLEY CHRISTIAN CHURCH HAS SEASON OF PROSPERITY

The Valley Christian Church is having a season of prosperity. The church is not only drawing unto itself large audiences, but a class of people who are highly educated and cultured. Hood River valley is largely populated by college men from the east and this church is getting a large number of them. The minister finds himself, especially on Sunday evenings, facing a big bunch of wealth and education.

A new church is to be built. The building committee has been named, and when completed the ground space will be 60x70 feet. The pastor has a big hold on the people and under his ministry things are coming to pass. The ladies have given two ice cream socials within two weeks, the receipts being for both $83.40. This is to be applied on the new church. When you have read the above, say "Hurrah," and then send us a check for any sum.

Water Works on the Farm

Yes, that's just what we mean—real water works: running water in the kitchen, the bathroom, the laundry, the barn—in fact, all over the place. And it's all done by that tank you see in the lower left hand corner of this picture—the Leader System. It's vastly different from the old-fashioned elevated tank which worked by gravity. For the Leader Water Supply System is operated by compressed air—reliable, safe and cleanly. Your windmill pumps water into the tank (which is already full of air). The air, being elastic, is compressed into upper part of the tank, and forces the water out through the pipes.

This gives you a pressure, so that a powerful stream of water is on tap at every faucet, no matter where it is located. And this means absolute fire-protection, for the pressure is always on and always ready. Now, the old style gravity tanks were either put in the attic or situated on a high tower out of doors.

Leader Water Supply System

avoids all this, because the air-tight tank is either in the basement or buried underground below the frost line. Every outfit is complete, with full directions, and is easily installed. The Leader System needs no repairs, is suited to small buildings or large, and is moderate in price.

Let us send you our free booklet, "How I Solved the Water Supply Problem," the story of a man who successfully equipped his country home with modern water works. Write for it today, before you forget.
