IOWA MAN BUYS VANCE ORCHARD

A land sale of more than passing interest was consummated Monday when Prof. J. H. Vance, through the Hood River Realty Company, disposed of his fine place on the west side to W. H. Furrow of Tripoli, Iowa. Under Mr. Vance's ownership the place, which consists of nine acres, two miles south of the city, has been improved into one of the finest home places in the valley.

The manum road now reaches it, and it will be but a short time before it becomes still more valuable. The price paid by Mr. Furrow was $14,500. He expects to come here shortly to live.

Naming Ranches Popular Mention in last week's News of the movement by many in the valley to give their places a name, is being received favorably. The fact that it gives even a prosaic apple ranch added dignity and identity is appealing to those who had not before considered the matter.

At the meeting of the Apple Growers Fellowship which was held Saturday an amendment to the by-laws was passed permitting the experts of the Oregon Agricultural College to become advisory members of the board of directors.

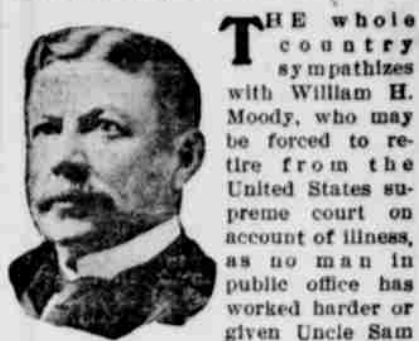

Auto-Truck for Hood River The first automobile dray was put in use here this week when a Buick truck with a capacity of carrying a ton was received by Bone & DeWitt.

Card of Thanks I wish to thank the friends at Dee and Hood River for their kindly assistance and sympathy occasioned by the death of my brother Daniel Smith.

POLITICAL COLUMN County Surveyor Having been recommended by the Republican County Assembly as a suitable candidate for county surveyor, I wish to announce that I will come before the primaries September 24th for the nomination.

Candidate for County Surveyor I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of county surveyor at the Republican primaries to be held Saturday, September 24th.

Some People In the Public Eye

THE whole country sympathizes with William H. Moody, who may be forced to retire from the United States supreme court on account of illness, as no man in public office has worked harder or given Uncle Sam more of his time.

Even if he does retire he won't loaf. He doesn't know how. He held the long, short and middle distance records as a worker when he was in congress and when he was secretary of the navy and attorney general and later on when he joined the supreme bench.

The sudden illness that struck Queen Elizabeth of Roumania came as a great shock to the world, her work for her people having made her universally known and beloved. She was born in Neuwied, Germany, on Dec. 20, 1853, and in 1869 married Prince Charles of Roumania.

It was subsequently that she became known as a writer of poems, novelettes, dramatic sketches and fairy stories and adopted the pen name of "Carmen Sylva." Her romantic nom de plume signifies "songs of the woods." Many of her majesty's literary productions have been translated into English.

Governor Jared Young Sanders of Louisiana, who was recently elected to the United States senate, will be the youngest member, excepting Senator Gore. Sanders is forty-one. He has taken a leading part in state politics and has been much in the limelight.

While in that office Mr. Sanders signed the Locke bill, which prohibited betting on race tracks and other gambling. Racing promptly ceased at the City park and fair grounds tracks, but certain horsemen, whose management of races had really caused the bill's passage, kept on racing at Suburban park.
