Simplicity and Durability

is the basis which the WHITE SEWING MACHINE is built on. We are unprejudiced in our claim that the WHITE is the best sewing machine in the WORLD. We are only too glad to show you that the range of work is unlimited. We make the Vibrator and Rotary machines, the latter being equipped with the Lock and Chain stitch, making two machines in one and possesses other desirable features too numerous to mention.

LAFFERTY HERE WITH COAT OFF
A. W. Lafferty, candidate for the nomination for congress from the Second Oregon district, was here Thursday getting acquainted. Mr. Lafferty is a young man, but not so young that he needs a guardian, and a few minutes talk with him brings the conclusion that he does not lack for grey matter or experience. Before coming to Oregon he was prosecuting attorney in one of the fighting counties in Missouri. He is now practicing law successfully in Portland, and, while an anti-assembly man, is a broad enough Republican to state that if he doesn't get the nomination, he will take off his coat and work for the Republican who does.
He believes in putting his ideas as to what a congressman in Oregon should stand for before the people, and is willing to debate the question with any and all comers. Last winter he spent several months in Washington familiarizing himself with the machinery of Uncle Sam's lawmaking department, and if elected will introduce several bills he believes are for the best interests of the state.
Mr. Lafferty has arranged for a speaking date here and has invited W. R. Ellis and Geo. Shepard, his opponents for the nomination, to meet him in debate. If they fail to put in an appearance, he will speak anyway, and has engaged the Hood River band to entertain the audience with a band concert. The date set for his address is Wednesday evening, August 31.
Water Situation as Salem Sees It
The Salem Statesman, in commenting upon the situation at the state capital, which is having its troubles in regard to a municipal water system, remarks tersely as follows:
"There are a lot of wise guys at Hood River, and they did not propose to pay the private water company there the appraised price of the property. It was too high. Entirely beyond reason. So the wise guys proposed that the city build its own water works system and run the private company out of business. So the wise guys had their way and the bonds for the city system were duly voted. So far so good. But nothing has been done. There is nothing doing. Nothing will be done. Why? Are the bonds not good? The wise guys say they are good. But the stubborn bond buyers will make no bid on them. They do not want them at any price. They would not give a dollar for a carload of them. So the matter stands. The bond buyers know it would be a losing business for the city to enter into the water business as a competitor. The city system would not earn interest on the bonds. The bond buyers are particular about having their interest. They also want to know that the principal is good. They do not have to buy bonds of cities that want to compete with private companies. They have their money. They can keep it. So it would be in Salem. A municipal water system contemplates a monopoly. The city must be the whole thing. Then the bonds will be good. The earnings will pay the interest and provide for a sinking fund for the principal. Do you see the point?"

Accepts Call to Riverside Church
Rev. Edward A. Harris, pastor of the First Congregational Church at Stretor, Ill., has accepted a call to supply the vacancy in the pastorate of Riverside Congregational Church for a month, and will hold his first service here Sunday, Sept. 4th.
Mr. Harris, according to letters received by the church trustees, has made a marked success of his pastorate at Stretor, having built up the church and administered its affairs successfully, and is spoken of as a man of broad, progressive and able qualities. He has served on the church's business board, as well as acting as pastor, and is also said to be competent as a musical director. It is believed that the local church has secured in Mr. Harris a strong church organizer and builder, and his coming is awaited with interest.
Davidson Fruit Co. Ready for Apples
The Davidson Fruit Co. has just closed the strawberry season, having handled some 25,000 crates which netted here at Hood River $2.33 per crate, giving their customers an increased profit of 20c per crate, or about $5,000 over other shippers.
This firm will be in the apple deal and expect to maintain their good reputation by giving their customers satisfaction.
Those having crops of fancy apples will no doubt put money into their pockets by arranging with the Davidson Fruit Co. to handle their fruit.
Phone them at 65 or call at the office at the foot of Third street, Hood River, Oregon.*
Hazelwood sweet cream and Ice cream can be obtained in quantities from now on at Ross & Richard's.*
