Laziness In Children Is A Hereditary Disease.

By Dr. LAUMONIER, French Physician.

WHAT IS KNOWN AS LAZINESS AT SCHOOL IS VERY OFTEN NOTHING BUT THE MANIFESTATION OF A MORBID STATE OF HEALTH, AND SUCH CHILDREN SHOULD NOT BE PUNISHED, THEY ARE INVALIDS.

Of twenty-seven lazy school children I found twenty-two had parents suffering from obesity, gout, diabetes, arterial sclerosis or nervous troubles. SLUGGISHNESS IN VARIOUS FORMS IS TRANSMITTED TO THE OFFSPRING as the result of maladies from which the parents suffered.

Such children simply need more than the usual share of fresh air, suitable exercise and careful supervision. Often, of course, an unsuitable diet affects a child's power of application.

Unfortunately, children are often punished for willful laziness when MALNUTRITION OR INDIGESTION IS THE TRUE CAUSE of their inertia.

STUDY CHILDREN'S DIGESTION AND BREATHING BEFORE BLAMING THEM FOR LAZINESS.

THEIR FRIENDS.

Stetson's Advice as to Where They Might Possibly Be Found.

John Stetson used to have a vaudeville house in Philadelphia, and he inaugurated there the custom which prevails now in some of the cheaper theaters of taking a performer off in the middle of the turn if he did not please the patrons in front. Every Monday night opened his house with fifteen acts, and as each one went on he stood in the wings and allowed those in front to decide whether it should be retained on the bill.

Sometimes the people in front would cry, "Take him off, John; he's no good," and Stetson would march out on the stage and drag the performer off, give him $10 for his performance and tell him he need not return. One evening there were two men who seemed especially obnoxious to the audience, who greeted them with cat-calls and howling derision. They managed, however, to get through with their song and came off the stage nervously preparing to return for the remainder of their act.

"Here, you," shouted John Stetson, "what was the name of that song?"

"What's that to you?" asked one of the singers.

"It may be something to you," answered Stetson, with a few of the curse words for which he was noted.

"I'm John Stetson, and I want to know the name of that song."

"Beg pardon, Mr. Stetson," said the crestfallen variety man. "It is called 'Where Are the Friends of Our Youth.'"

"Well, you didn't seem to find them out in front. Take this $10 and go and hunt them on the outside."

Show Your Talents.

Exert your talents and distinguish yourself, and don't think of retiring from the world until the world will be sorry that you retire. I hate a fellow whom pride or cowardice or laziness drives into a corner and who does nothing when he is there but sit and growl. Let him come out, as I do, and bark.—Samuel Johnson.

A Suggestive Bark.
The man who ruined a sausage maker's trade by walking into his shop with a sackful of dead cats and dumping the contents down on the counter now finds a rival—albeit an unintentional one—in the person of a London waiter. The latter worthy, being asked by a customer for sausages, replied that there were none left, but, being of an obliging disposition, he went on to say that if the gentleman did not mind waiting for a few minutes some should be obtained for him, meaning, of course, that they should be sent out for. The customer having signified his willingness to wait, the waiter proceeded to the culinary department to give the necessary instructions, but on arriving there he had the misfortune to step on the tail of a dog which belonged to one of the kitchen attendants. The injured animal immediately let out a series of agonized yelps, whereupon the customer, being evidently a man of imaginative mind, turned pale, hesitated only a second and then, grabbing his coat and hat, fled wildly into the street.

FIRED WILDLY INTO THE STREET
