UPPER VALLEY HOLDS BIG BOOSTER MEETING

A big booster meeting of the Upper Valley Progressive Association was held in McIsaac's hall at Parkdale, Saturday night, and a movement started for a general improvement of the upper country. The association started off with fifty members and among other things took up subscriptions to the Apple Growers Fellowship. The meeting was addressed on this subject by C. D. Thompson and two hundred acres were listed for subscription with the Fellowship Association. Committees were also appointed and a complete canvass will be made to get all the acreage in the Upper Valley and have its owners co-operate with both associations.

Another matter taken up was that of the proposed electric road which was presented to the meeting by H. B. Langille and E. T. Folts, directors of the company which is promoting the road. It was stated by G. D. Woodworth that he would take $10,000 worth of stock when assured that work on the road would be commenced.

Upper Valley fruit growers say that it will have the largest and finest exhibit of apples at the fruit fair this year that has ever come out of that country and that they are preparing now to make it one of the features of the show.

A visitor of note who was here Thursday was O. D. Hefner representing L. S. Donaldson & Co., the big department store people in Minneapolis. Mr. Hefner was here for the purpose of securing an exhibit of apples to be placed in the store windows of some of the big mercantile establishments in the Minneapolis metropolis, many of whom have offered the use of their show windows for ten days. This kind of an apple show was inaugurated in Minneapolis last year and proved a big success. Mr. Hefner says that about all the apple growing districts of the Northwest were represented except Hood River and that this year the Donaldson company is anxious to have a big share of the population of the city and state have an opportunity to see what he is told by experts are the finest apples in the world. The Donaldson company is promoting the apple show with a view to establishing a market for Hood River's fancy fruit in that section of the country. As a result of the exhibit last year this firm sold ten cars of high grade western apples and the company believes that there is a good market there for a big installment of the best that the markets afford.
